The Marquis DE MOUSTIER, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Chevalier DE NIGRA, the Italian Ambassador, arrived here just before the troubles broke out in Italy, and have since been in constant consultation with the Emperor.

It is said that the following plan for the settlement of the Roman question has been agreed upon:

FLORENCE, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

The volunteers of GARIBALDI are marching upon Rome from every direction.

The Florence Press urge the Government to anticipate them and occupy the city with the national troops.

A report has gained currency that the American Minister, Hon. GEORGE P. MARSH, had demanded the release of Gen. GARIBALDI, on the ground that he was a citizen of the United States. This is denied; but it is true that Mr. MARSH has asked the Government to show clemency to the distinguished prisoner.

GARIBALDI has issued an address denouncing RATAZZI, and urging his followers to carry on the war for the possession of Rome.

FOREIGN MAILS BY THE CUBA.

The mails by the steamship Cuba, including dates to Sept. 29, arrived in this City from Boston at a late hour last night. The advices were mainly anticipated by the Periere.

The English and continental journals are almost wholly taken up with the Garibaldian movement against Rome. According to the Paris correspondent of the London Express the arrest of the General was far from being considered a settlement of the question; and the correspondent of the Globe says it was believed that the arrest was "only an act in a prearranged comedy. The comedy, they say, is that the Italian Government shall show a determination to maintain the treaty of September relative to Rome, and by so doing shall enable the French Emperor to represent to the Catholic party in France that their fears respecting the temporal power of the Papacy are unfounded. In return for this the French Emperor is at the first opportune moment, out of pretended regard for the 'national aspirations' of Italy, to consent to such a modification of the said treaty as will facilitate the taking of Rome by Italy on a future day."

In regard to the rumored dispatch of French troops to Rome the Avenir National of Sept. 25 says: "To return to Rome would be as senseless as to return to Mexico, and in the absence of substantial proof, we do not admit that such an aberration, which would so nicely play the game of M. BISMARCK, could enter the mind of the Government. If it were possible for our Government to commit such folly, we should then have to expect early and serious complications."

Intelligence received at St. Petersburgh from Constantinople, announces that Gen. IGNATIEFF, before his second journey to Livadia, was informed by the Sultan that owing to the state of public opinion in Turkey it was impossible for the Porte to do more in the Candian question than to enlarge the rights of the Candians and other Christians. MAHOMED FARISSA, Ambassador from the Khan of Bucc ara, has been received by the Sultan. He requested the protection of the Porte against Russia, but the Sultan declined to grant the petition. An extradition treaty has been concluded between Russia and the Netherlands.

Intelligence received at Trieste from Hong Kong announces that the chief of the Mahomedan rebels had declared himself Emperor. The Hankow Chamber of Commere had publicly entered a protest against the restrictions recently imposed upon foreign trade by the Chinese. The Chinese Government are raising a loan of 1,000,000 taels; a portion of the amount to be employed in the purchase of rice, in anticipation of a famine.

Intelligence received at Trieste from Aden, dated Sept. 12, states that the latest dates from the captives at Magdala were of July 27, received at Massowah on Sept. 1. At that time they were all well. The rains had commenced. The latest dates from the King's camp at Debra Tabor were of the 11th of July. At that place there was heavy rain. All the captives were pretty well, and were being well treated. The King's conduct toward them was cold and indifferent. The country round about was in a disturbed state. Direct communication between the King's camp and the coast was entirely cut off, and communications were sent via Magdala.

Sir MOSES MONTEFIORE, the Jewish Baronet, has returned to London, from his mission to Roumania, on behalf of his coreligionists in that country. The correspondence between Sir MOSES and Prince CHARLES, the reigning Prince of Roumania, has been published; and it appears that the honorable Baronet has entirely succeeded in the object of his journey. He says he has every reason to hope that the laws of the country, which provide for the protection of Jews as well as of all the other inhabitants of Roumania, will be carried out in their full integrity.

GARIBALDI AND ROME.

The Temporal Power of the Pope—Napoleon's Views and Policy.

From the London Times, Sept. 26.

Since the temporal power is equally intolerable to Rome and Italy, and since its existence is owing either to some flaw in the September Convention or to the false and arbitrary interpretation put upon it by the French Government, it is clear that GARIBALDI's expedition, the object of which was to set aside that onerous compact, would have met with the full approbation of the people, and even of the Government of Italy, had it only had the least chance of success. The catastrophes of Aspromonte and Sinalunga have both been brought about by the dread and horror that Italy has of a war with France; but it is to be observed that, although Italy is as unequal to a contest with her former benefactress in 1867 as she was in 1862, still the completion of her national work by the acquisition of Venice, and the strength accruing to her by her relations with Germany, have placed her in a position to uphold her dignity toward France, at the same time that they have lessened the weight of her obligations to that Power. Had RATTAZZI aided instead of checking GARIBALDI's enterprise, we are not sure that good arguments might not be urged in justification of his policy, nor that, in the presence of possible complications on the Rhine, and upon due consideration of the state of parties in France, that policy might not have been made acceptable to the Emperor NAPOLEON.

But, had it been justifiable, it would have been a violent and hazardous course, and in so far unadvisable to a statesman who might hope to arrive at the same results by more discreet measures. The Temporal Power must appear as irreparably doomed to the French as to the Italian Government, and its downfall has in all probability been the subject of joint speculation between them. No heavy blow can be so decisive to an inveterate evil as a practical demonstration of its waning vitality, and the Emperor NAPOLEON has been at great pains to show that if the Papacy is dying, it is not in consequence of any attempt on his part to kill it, but rather in despite of his most earnest endeavors to save it. The Papacy, he can say, has exhausted all the resources that both France and Austria had for years brought to its rescue. Can it be imagined that a few ill-recruited and worse disciplined foreign hirelings and a few bags of Peter's-pence, should enable the Pope, with a waste territory and a bankrupt treasury, to keep up a sovereign State to which the armies of the two greatest Empires in Europe and the revenues of the finest Provinces in Italy could lend no valid support?

That such are the views of the Emperor NAPOLEON we are firmly convinced, and it seems but natural that he should have won over to them Italian statesmen, who, up to the battle of Sadowa, had no other choice than the Emperor's good pleasure. The position, as we have said, is now changed, and the Italian Government need only take counsel from their country's interests. They have set GARIBALDI aside, and, considering that the Peninsula could have but one King, they were not only entitled but in duty bound to put down one who, no matter for what cause or upon what merits, usurped the prerogative of the Crown. But the work which they prevented GARIBALDI from accomplishing devolves now on themselves. Italy has had to pay dearly for the September Convention. She had to stultify her own Parliament, rescind a vote which had been elicited by CAVOUR's statesmanship, renounce her own capital, break faith with Turin and sour the temper of Piedmont, and all merely that the Romans should gain a thorough mastery over their destinies. If GARIBALDI had to be sacrificed to the September Convention, it is incumbent on GARIBALDI's captors to see that the Convention is equally binding on both the contracting parties. However disinterested Italy might be in her own case, she should at least have more efficiently upheld the rights and interests of the Romans. The Papacy is the only Power allowed in our days to hold sway by the aid of foreign mercenaries. The bulk of the Papal forces is altogether disproportionate to the exigencies of a well-regulated community. If it be true that the Pope can so firmly rely on his people's devotion, let him, like all other civilized Princes, trust himself to the protection of an exclusively native soldiery. If he need the help of foreign Zouaves against the Romans, why should not these latter call in the aid of Italian volunteers against him?

It is natural to suppose that the Italian Government, when they so bitterly complained that GARIBALDI's headlong violence was breaking through their long-laid plans just as they were being brought to maturity, must have felt some confidence of their ability to press some such arguments as the above on the French Government, so as to obtain fair play in behalf of the Romans. For RATTAZZI no less than for NAPOLEON, and for both of them no less than for GARIBALDI, "every road leads to Rome," and the very shortest is the removal of those mercenaries who are as much out of place near the Vatican as a Swiss guard or a Royal Allemand would be in the Courts of the Tuileries. If the Italian Government is equal to its mission, many months, or perhaps weeks, will not pass before we see its real purpose in interfering with GARIBALDI's movements. GARIBALDI's fall at Aspromonte led to the evacuation of Rome by the Imperial garrison. GARIBALDI's arrest at Sinalunga ought equally to decide the expulsion of Zouaves and other foreign hirelings. If the Papacy can spare the latter, as it has hitherto dispensed with the former, and if it can thus establish its right to stand on its own merits, we shall be the first to cry, "Esto perpetua!"

FRANCE AND GERMANY.

Bismarck's Circular in France—The Preparations for War in Both Countries.

From the London Times, Sept. 27.

We have already, in a previous article, pointed out the main causes of the irritation produced by the publication of M. BISMARCK's circular in France. We know not to what extent we may be reassured as to its effects by the apparently softened mood of public opinion in that country. The warlike preparations on both sides of the Rhine are certainly proceeding on the largest scale; but even those who assign the shortest possible period to the outbreak of hostilities are now willing to allow us breathing time till next Spring. Between this and April or May, 1868, there are at least six months, a lapse of time under present circumstances not to be fathomed by human eye. He must be a bold man who would fortell what may happen in the interval. Were France and Prussia to continue to strain every nerve for the coming struggle, as they have visibly been doing ever since Sadowa, next Spring would find them both in such a state of exhaustion as to allow them but little scope for sustained exertion. Even in this mad, ruinous race, however, it would be found that Prussia not only had the start originally, but would also be able to keep ahead of her adversary by the superiority both of her military and of her financial organization. Her breech-loaders are all ready and her treasury is full, while in France bread is dear and the new Army Bill is not popular. Such considerations would, of course, weigh less than nothing if the honor of France were at stake. There are spirit and devotion enough in the French people to counterbalance all material advantages. But the fact is, the very honor of France forbids her engaging in a contest of this nature. The war, she must feel convinced, would not be waged against Prussia, but against Germany; not against the ambition of a Monarch or a statesman, but against the aspirations of a people, France, the champion of nationality, cannot allow it to be said that either jealousy or fear of a rising nation brought her into the field. The prestige of her name is gone when she admits only of the possibility of a rival. That United Germany could ever become a danger for France no one but France could say. No one could believe it, did even France say it. On the other hand, even if powerless for offence, united Germany may prove to be a match for France in defence. In a mere international duel there can be no permanent gain on either side. NAPOLEON was aware of it, and hence the journey to Salzburg. The Salzburg interview had no results, and hence the speeches in the Flemish cities, hence the Moustier Circular. The Emperor himself has no faith in war. Pity he is unable or unwilling to inspire his subjects with confidence in peace!

AFFAIRS IN VIRGINIA.

The Trial of Davis—The Coming Convention—Political Prospects—Probable Negro Supremacy.

From Our Own Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Monday, Oct. 7, 1867.

It seems to be pretty well established that Mr. DAVIS will be tried at the November term of the Circuit Court, in this city, and that Chief Justice CHASE will sit in company with UNDERWOOD on the great State occasion. Mr. CHANDLER, the District Attorney, says he will be ready for trial, and as the President and Attorney General will in no way interfere with him, it is his intention to try the cause at all hazards. As there exists no doubt of the prisoners' appearance, and of the readiness of his counsel for trial, there is nothing to prevent it taking place at the time set. Should Mr. CHASE not come UNDERWOOD will hold the Assizes, and he has given assurances that it will not be a very "bloody" affair. Notwithstanding the near approach of the time and the certainty of the event, there is no excitement manifested, and but little interest is felt by the Southern public as yet, in the matter. It is rarely that the name of Mr. DAVIS is mentioned now. He is fast sinking into obscurity, and were all farther proceedings estopped, he would be heard of no more, and become as insignificant as JAKE THOMPSON, BENJAMIN, SLIDELL, MASON, WIGFALL, and other "fallen angels" of the late Confederacy. Virginians care but little about him because he was, unfortunately for the perpetuity of his name and fame, not born on her sacred soil, and the people of this State worship none but their native gods—not to be a Virginian is with them a crime. Stonewall JACKSON and LEE and STERLING PRICE are the only personages living or dead that Virginia can at present afford to delight in honoring. All reports, therefore, about the people of Richmond being excited over the expected trial, are unfounded. The public pulse beats as temperately as it would were no such person in existence. Time cures all things, and it is fast curing the people of the South of their admiration for the men who have entailed upon them so much misery and reduced them to poverty and degradation. They are turning from their idols; are losing their zest for rebel hero-worship, and ere long will doubtless return to the true faith, and be found among the most devoted and loyal lovers of the "Union of our fathers," and defenders of the honor and integrity of the country.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

A year ago and ANDY JOHNSON was only second to DAVIS in the estimation of the South; but now there are very few to do him honor. They have discovered too late that he is the unintentional author of all their woes, and although they feel grateful to him for his good intentions in their behalf, and therefore do not denounce him, because they believe he did all for the best, yet none are so blind as not to see that to his blunders and perverse obstinacy the South is indebted for negro suffrage and all its ills. But for him these ten States would long since have been fully reconstructed and in the Union—enjoying peace and prosperity. It was cruel in Congress to make the honest and well-intentioned rank and file of the white people of the South suffer for the faults of ANDY JOHNSON, and his friends, the Northern Democrats, and irreconcilable Southern bumb-proof heroes and traitorous editors. It was unjust to make entire communities responsible for the acts of a few misguided or bad men; and the punishment meted out was heavier than the offence justified. It was the refinement of cruelty to cut us off entirely from our inheritance, and give our birthright to the negro, merely to punish ANDREW JOHNSON for his treason to his party. The South has certainly much to answer for, but it is too hard to make her the scape-goat of the multitudinous sins of JEFFERSON DAVIS and ANDREW JOHNSON.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

Negro political supremacy is a fixed fact in Virginia, I regret to say, and it is all owing to the apathy of the white people, who are determined to take no part in the government of the State, unless they can have it all their own way. They are all too proud to bend the pregnant hinges of the knee to Sambo, that success may follow fawning. They will not condescend to talk about the affairs of the nation with their former slaves, and disdain to enter into any alliance with them, or concede to them even the right of civil treatment, and will not vote at the same elections. Consequently the negroes will all vote, and vote the same way. They are fully organized, are enthusiastic and exultant, because they are certain of victory. Many of them, too, are disposed to be overbearing and insulting, and things look very gloomy for the white race. It is a bad piece of business. The whites have all the wealth and intelligence, but the negroes have all the political power through the ballot. They are conscious of their strength, and will use it without mercy. They will cast their votes as one man for out-and-out Radical Republicans, and while to the most important offices white men of their own party will be chosen, they will surely claim a share of the spoils. The Convention that is to be elected on the 22d will be thoroughly Radical, though it will doubtless be composed of white men. A constitution will be framed, which will disfranchise a great many whites, confiscate large estates, multiply offices, increase the taxes on property, and establish universal suffrage and a free system of education for all the children of the State, white and black. It will also deal a blow at the privileged classes, by taking from the colleges and universities and institutions, which are open only to the children of the whites, all State aid.

Our colored population, which is our only voting population worth counting—as the whites will not vote—are clamorous for a city election. They want the spoils of office, and a few nights since, at a very noisy gathering of their clans, Judge UNDERWOOD promised them that they would soon have an opportunity to elevate their friends to office. Should the elections be ordered, WARDWELL will probably be made Mayor, and we shall have a city council of mixed white and black ultra Radicals. There is a small faction of white Radicals here with Mr. FRANKLIN STEARNS, the millionaire, and some ex-officers and soldiers who are trying to rule the political affairs of the city; but the negroes will not be led by them. They will listen to nobody but their "friend and hero," as they style him, Mr. HUNNICUTT, whom they obey with the servility of slaves. They will do anything he orders. He has them under complete control, and uses his power so skillfully, as to leave the impression on their simple minds that they are controlling him instead of being led. He is the strongest man, by far, in the State, and wields a mighty influence among the blacks. The Conservatives have made a great mistake in pretending to despise him, for his power is by no means despicable, and he may very properly be called the Brownlow of Virginia; though he is a more humane and liberal man than the great Tennesseean, and is far more reasonable in his demands, and I think the white race has far less to fear from him than they suppose.

MILITARY RULE.

So kind and gentle is the sway of Gen. SCHOFIELD, and so used have we grown to the bristling of the bayonets, that our people are fast getting used to imperial government, and are in no hurry to change it for a return to anarchical democracy. After seven years of experience under a government of the sword, the people of the North need not be surprised, if they learn that we have acquired a distaste for republican simplicities, and have learned to reverence military or imperial rule. Better a single tyrant than many, a NAPOLEON than a mob, a CROMWELL than a parliament, may become the cry with us, should we long be blessed with such gentlemen as the Commander of District No. 1 and his subordinates, and shall wish the day far distant when we shall be forced to change him for negro rule.

DULLNESS IN RICHMOND.

This city is very dull. There is scarcely any business being transacted, and money is scarce. There are a great many poor men and women out of employment and in destitute circumstances, and as cold weather is fast approaching there will be much suffering, principally among the white people. Our streets look quite deserted, and the hotels, of which we have too many, are doing very little. The railroads carry all their passengers through to New-York, and this city is fast becoming a mere way-station. The attempt to revive theatricals is a failure. Miss CHARLOTTE THOMPSON played two weeks at Ogden's Theatre, the only place of amusement open, to empty boxes; on no evening was there more than a two hundred dollar house, and on some nights she played to less than twenty dollars! This speaks volumes for the prosperity of a State that is out of the Union.

ANOTHER MISS HARRIS CASE.

The trial of a woman named ANNE E. KIRBY for the murder of her husband nearly two years ago, while in a jealous rage, was terminated on Saturday night. The defence set up was insanity; but the evidence failed to satisfy the jury that she was not in her right mind when she slew her husband in the market-house, under circumstances of great cruelty, and they found her guilty in the second degree, and sentenced her to seven years in the Penitentiary. This was a compromise verdict, for the jury first stood six for hanging, five for manslaughter and one for acquittal, at first; but all settled upon seven years. Juries are sometimes great humbugs. She is a rather elderly Irish woman, neither homely nor handsome, and had two little boys, the children of her murdered husband, in Court with her for the purpose of exciting sympathy. There is no doubt that she became insane after the murder, and she was sent to the asylum, but at the time she was both sound in mind and in body. An arrest of judgment has been taken by her counsel on the ground that the verdict was contrary to the evidence, and the motion was filed for argument on the first day of the next term of the Court. The general impression here is that she got off very easily and ought to have suffered death, but the mawkish sentimentality of a few justifies the act, merely because she was a jealous woman and the husband was unfaithful to his vows. This case was tried before Judge BURNHAM, our new military Judge, whose bearing on the bench has made him already very popular. KAPPA.

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT—SOUTHERN DISTRICT—IN BANKRUPTCY.

Before Judge Blatchford.

PRACTICE ON EXAMINATION OF BANKRUPT.

In the matter of Samuel M. Levy and Mark Levy.—An order having been made in this case for the examination of the bankrupt, during that examination questions arose as to the propriety of certain questions asked of him, and it was claimed that the examination should be suspended and the questions certified to the Court. The Register adopted the following practice: He directed the examination to proceed, the Register passing upon each question as it arose, and announced that at the close of the examination he would entertain a motion to strike out specified portions so objected to, or to compel answers to the questions excluded, and on that would certify. The questions to the Court and on the coming in of the Judge's decision, would proceed to strike out answers, or allow the questions to be answered as the opinion should indicate, and the Register certified to the Court the question as to the propriety of this practice.

Held by the Court—That the views and practice of the Register are approved, and this decision will be regarded as a general rule or order that such practice be followed by the Registers.

In the Matter of Jordon Lyon.—A similar question having arisen on the examination of the defendant, the Register stopped the examination, and certified the questions objected to, to the Court.

The Court directed the examination to proceed according to the foregoing rule.

Defendants are charged with conspiring to defraud the United States Government by means of forged and fraudulent pension papers.

The papers thus presented were those of a Mrs. Connor, whose husband died in the army. She presented her papers shortly after the war, and obtained her pension. The papers presented in this case set forth that about three months after the decease of her said husband a child was born, and she asked for the additional pension on that account.

The Government claims that no child was born to Mrs. Connor within the time specified by law for the allowance of additional pension, and that the signatures to the papers were forgeries, Mrs. Connor being unable to write. Some additional evidence was taken to-day with regard to the birth of the child, and the case was further adjourned.

SUPREME COURT—CIRCUIT—PART III.—OCT. 8.

Before Judge Welles and a Jury.

THE $25,000 LIBEL SUIT—COMPLAINT DISMISSED.

George W. Kiersted vs. Andrew Clerk and William F. Clerk.—This case, the particulars of which were reported in the TIMES of Tuesday, has been dismissed. The plaintiff claimed damages to the extent of $25,000, which he alleged he had sustained by reason of defendants having written a letter (published yesterday) reflecting upon his character. When the trial was resumed on Tuesday some rebutting testimony was given by plaintiff as to the waste which necessarily resulted in the manufacture of thread into fishing lines.

On the motion made by Mr. Luther R. Marsh, counsel for defendants, to dismiss the complaint, he urged among others the following points:

This, said he, is a letter to Mr. Sprang, cautioning him against buying lines of the plaintiff, it being suspected that he had stolen the thread. Both defendants and Mr. Sprang were interested in the question. The defendants were employing the plaintiff to make lines for them out of their thread, delivered to him, and Mr. Sprang was a purchaser of lines from plaintiff, he having bought some of them. The letter states the suspicion, states some of the evidence on which the suspicion was founded, viz.: That defendants' clerk had bought one of these very lines of Sprang, sending a specimen of the lines claimed by defendants, and putting Sprang on his guard against being cheated by the plaintiff. The letter was written to Sprang, was by him received, and never shown to anyone. Now, if the defendants had any good reason to believe the statement true, they had a right to send this letter, and this even though the facts therein stated were not true. With respect to libel and slander, the rule, as deduced from an extensive class of cases, is, that where an occasion exists which, if fairly acted upon, furnishes a legal protection to the party who makes the communication complained of, the actual intention of the party affords a boundary of legal liability. If he had that legitimate object in view which the occasion supplies, he is neither civilly nor criminally amenable. If, on the contrary, he used the occasion as a cloak for maliciousness, it can afford him no protection. The rule applicable for determining whether a particular communication is privileged, has, in a recent case, been thus stated: "A communication made bona fide upon any subject matter, in which the party communicating has an interest, or in reference to which he has a duty, is privileged, if made to a person having a corresponding interest or duty, although it contain criminatory matter, which, without this privilege, would be slanderous and actionable." (85 Eng. Com. Law Reps.; Harrison vs. Bush, 5th Ellis and B., p. 344, and Legal Maxims.)

As to the authorities on privileged communications, various books were cited. In one case where a mate of a ship wrote a letter charging the captain with gross misconduct, and sent it to a stranger and by the latter shown to the owner of the ship, who dismissed the captain. Again, a notice by a creditor to the agent of the debtor not to pay over anything to the debtor, as he had committed an act of bankruptcy, was held to be privileged.

The noted case of Fowles vs. Bowen in 30 N. Y., p. 20, was cited as conclusive on the point.

In the last-named case a communication was made by Bowen, a former employer of plaintiff, to one Cole, a subsequent employer, to the effect that plaintiff had become such a notorious liar that they could place little or no confidence in him, and that defendant had become so thoroughly impressed with his dishonesty that they had to put the Police on his track. This was held to be a privileged communication, though much stronger against the writer, said the counsel, than is the letter now before the Court. Numerous other cases were cited. At the conclusion of the argument, Judge WELLES said he had been somewhat in doubt at the beginning whether he ought to let the case go to the jury. But he had examined the cases cited, and the only conclusion he could come to was to dismiss the plaintiff's complaint, for the reasons already alluded to.

For plaintiff, Mr. Whittaker; for defendants, Mr. Luther R. Marsh.

CIRCUIT—PART I—OCT. 8.

Before Judge Ingraham.

MALICIOUS PROSECUTION—$1,000 DAMAGES.

Elizabeth Wortman vs. Wm. B. Davis.—The defendant in this action caused the arrest of Mrs. Wortman, the plaintiff, on the charge of grand larceny. Some time ago defendant was engaged in a courtship with plaintiff's daughter, during which, as is claimed, he defendant, gave his intended a valuable ring. The young lady rejected defendant's suit and thereupon he claimed the ring. That not being forthcoming, he caused the arrest of the mother for grand larceny. The affair was duly investigated and the mother promptly discharged. It is for this arrest and prosecution of the mother that this action was brought. When the case was called on yesterday the defendant did not appear. The presiding Judge, having perused the answer, remarked that it showed a justifiable cause of arrest, and if proved as alleged by the defendant, it might constitute a defence. Witnesses were introduced on the part of plaintiff, and the jury, after a brief deliberation, rendered a verdict for plaintiff for $1,000.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—SPECIAL TERM.—OCT. 8.

Before Judge Brady.

Richard O'Connor et al. vs. The West Side and Yonkers Patent Railway Company.—This was a motion for a permanent injunction against the defendants restraining them from taking possession of or using the premises of plaintiffs, who are property owners on Greenwich-street, for the purpose of constructing an elevated railway. Plaintiff O'Connor occupied apartments in the basement of No. 95 Greenwich-street, which were taken possession of by the defendants, who are constructing an experimental elevated railway between the Battery and Cortlandt-street. P. Y. Cutter, who appeared for the plaintiffs, claimed that the act of the Legislature under which this elevated railway is being constructed is unconstitutional, for the reason that it relates to two subjects, one of which is not stated in its title; that it limits and defines the jurisdiction of the Courts with regard to the corporation which it creates; and that it authorizes the taking of private property for the private use of a company of common carriers for the purpose of making an experiment. Even if the act be not constitutional, he claimed that private property could be taken without compensation, to be first determined in a legal way, which was not done in this case. Judge Bosworth opposed the motion for an injunction, and argued that the act of the Legislature under which the defendants were acting was a public act, and did did not require a title; as to its defining the jurisdiction of the Courts, all the equity jurisdiction of the Common Pleas and Superior Courts was statutory; they originally had no jurisdiction of the kind. With reference to the compensation, the defendants were prepared to show that they had contracted with the plaintiff O'Connor for the occupation of his premises for two months for $150, and that in pursuance of this contract they had expended $3,000 in preparing a plan for their engine, which was to be run by the boiler in plaintiff's basement.

The Court took the papers and reserved a decision.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM—PART I—OCT. 8

Before Judge Monell.

THE COST OF SILVER PLATED WARE.

Samuel H. Black vs. E. V. Haughwout et al.—This action was brought to recover $180 20 for labor done and material furnished by plaintiff to silver plate four dozen bottlecorks, sixteen dozen table-forks, thirty dozen teaspoons, and twelve dozen tablespoons for defendants according to contract entered into in October, 1866.

The defence was that the work was not done according to contract: that the wares were to be plated to a "twelve ounce standard," that is, twenty pennyweights of silver were to be put upon each dozen table-spoons and table-forks, and ten pennyweights upon each dozen teaspoons, and that plaintiff was to receive for work and material the sum of $3 50 per dozen for table-spoons, and $1 85 per dozen for teaspoons. They allege that plaintiff only put six pennyweights of silver on each dozen spoons and forks, and 3 1-6 pennyweights on each dozen teaspoons; that the work was not properly done, and the goods were unfit for sale in defendant's store. They charge plaintiff with retaining in his possession goods belonging to defendants valued at $140 50, for which amount they claimed judgment.

The jury found a verdict for the plaintiff for $104 84 and interest.

For plaintiff, Chauncey Shaffer; for defendants, Jno. H. V. Arnold.

COURT OF OYER AND TERMINER.

Before Judge Ingraham.

The Grand Jury was impanneled yesterday at the Court of Oyer and Terminer, Mr. Peter J. Delavan acting as foreman. Its deliberations will probably continue until Friday next, when it will be discharged.

Judge INGRAHAM charged the jury briefly upon the usual points, and in addition thereto called special attention to the obstructions on the public streets, declaring that the Common Council has no right to grant the privilege to obstruct the highways, such authority belonging only to the State Legislature; and that whenever the existence of such obstructions came to the knowledge of the jury, they were to be acted upon as nuisances.

The Court then adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russel.

Only three cases were disposed of yesterday at the Court of General Sessions. Two of the prisoners were remanded and three were sentenced to the State Prison for various terms. Mr. R. B. Hutchins appeared for the prosecution.

TRIAL AND PLEAS.

Paul Laron, a young stone-mason, was arraigned upon the charge of stealing a quantity of money, wearing apparel, jewelry, &c., of the value of $361 77, from Peter W. King's dwelling, No. 9 West Tenth-street, on the night of the 10th of August last. The prisoner entered the house by means of forcing open the rear window-blinds, and then drawing the bolts. The evidence was all that was required to convict, and the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. Laron was sentenced to the State Prison for five years.

Three boys named Wm. Lloyd, Patrick Walsh and John Wilson were arraigned for burglary, alleged to have been perpetrated at the grocery-store of Frederick Brocker, No. 374 Cherry-street, on the 15th of August last. The prisoners pleaded guilty. The first and third named were remanded until Friday, and Walsh was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months.

George Smith, who on Monday pleaded guilty of grand larceny, was sentenced to the State Prison for two years.

The Court then adjourned until Monday next, at 11 o'clock A. M.

Mr. Robert C. Hutchins appeared for the people.

COURT OF SPECIAL SESSIONS.

Before Justices Dowling and Kelly.

There were forty-one cases on the calendar of the Court of Special Sessions yesterday. Of these 15 were charges of assault and battery; of petit larceny, 11; of aiding escape of a prisoner, 1; of keeping a disorderly house, 5; of misdemeanor, 1; of cruelty to animals, 1; of gaming, 1.

COMBATIVE AND DESTRUCTIVE.

Nicholas Filian was brought to the Bar charged with persecuting and assaulting his wife Bertha. It appears from the evidence that there is an action for divorce pending between the parties, and that they are no longer living together. Several months ago the prisoner was brought before the Court of Special Sessions charged with an assault similar to that in the present complaint. He abused his wife, blackened her eye and destroyed her clothing. He was then, owing to his apparent respectability and penitence, when found guilty, permitted to go, sentence being suspended. As stated, the complaint this time was for a repetition of this offence. He went again to the house on Monday of last week, and with his pocket-knife destroyed her dresses. The evidence against the prisoner was quite conclusive. Justice KELLY said that the Court found him guilty. He had been brought there before charged with the crime set out in the present complaint. He was then found guilty and leniently disposed of. He had repeated the offence, thus adding to the crime an insult to the Court. He (Justice KELLY) would now sentence him on the first complaint to be imprisoned in the Penitentiary for two months and fined fifty dollars.

AIDING A PRISONER'S ESCAPE.

Joseph Futcheraux, a Frenchman, was charged with aiding the escape of a prisoner in the custody of Officer GEORGE J. WOOD. The officer stated that when on his beat he saw a woman stand on the stoop of the house No. 164 Wooster-street and heard her solicit men to enter, who were passing. Pursuant to his instructions he went up the stoop and made her his prisoner. When about to remove her to the Station-house, the prisoner Futcheraux rushed out and forcibly took possession of her, bringing her in doors and shutting the door against the officer. He brandished a hatchet and thus intimidated the officer. Officer Wood, however, ultimately succeeded in effecting an entrance, but when he had done so his prisoner had escaped. Another officer then came up and the prisoner FUTCHERAUX was arrested. Evidence was brought to show that the woman was the wife of the prisoner; that he was employed in this house putting down carpets and doing other jobbing, and that his wife was there while he was engaged at this work; but that she was not a prostitute. It was further shown that the Frenchman did not understand the English language, and was only delivering his wife from what he believed to be an arrest under mistake. All he said to the officer was "Me good man, me good man," and the hatchet story was denied. The Court said the prisoner must be found guilty. It might be that the officer was mistaken in the character of his prisoner, but she was his prisoner nevertheless, and an interference with an officer in this manner could not be passed over. He would, however, be lenient. The prisoner was fined $20.

A BOARDER GETS MORE THAN HIS BARGAIN.

A colored man named James W. Frisbee presented himself with three great gashes in his head, to prosecute Louis Rout, who had inflicted these wounds. Louis Rouf, it appeared, is the landlord of a house which he resides in, letting the greater portion of it, however, to colored people. Among his tenants is a Mrs. Smith, who keeps boarders. She lately received among her boarders the complainant Frisbee, but of this fact it appeared the prisoner Rouf was unaware. On Thursday night last Mrs. Smith came to the door about midnight, accompanied by her friend Frisbee, but she found it locked. On knocking, the landlord came to the door, and said that as he made it a rule to have his place closed at 11 o'clock, he ought to keep Mrs. Smith out. Frisbee he refused to let in altogether. He did not recognize him as a tenant. An altercation then occurred, Frisbee endeavoring to force his way in. During the struggle the landlord inflicted the wounds described. As it was clearly a mistake on the part of the landlord, and as the sympathy of the Court was with him in his desire to keep an orderly house, he was let off with a $25 penalty.

DISORDERLY HOUSE.

Mary Thomas, the keeper of a disorderly house at No. 218½ Wooster-street, was found guilty of that offence, and sent to the Penitentiary for two months, and ordered to pay a fine of $50.

TUESDAY, Oct. 8—P. M.

The Erie Railway annual meeting for the election of Directors has been the excitement in Wall-street and on the Stock Exchange. The Old Board of Management—the Berdell-Drew Administration—were badly beaten. Only six of the old Directors were retained on the Opposition ticket. The old Directors left out are Messrs. Drew, Berdell, Gale, Cushman, Arnot, Marsh, Murray, Lanier, Phelps and Gale. The recent decease of Mr. RANDOLPH left a vacancy to be filled. The New Board consists of Messrs. Josiah Bardwell, J. C. Bancroft Davis, Alexander S. Diven, John S. Eldridge, William Evans, James Fisk, Jr., Eben D. Jordan, Jay Gould, Dudley S. Gregory, George M. Groves, Frederick A. Lane, Homer Ramsdell, William B. Skidmore, Henry Thompson, James S. Whitney, Frank Work and Levi Underwood.

The names in italic are of the Old Board. The Boston, Hartford and Erie Railway, (broad guage,) connecting with the line at Fishkill and Newburgh, is represented in the new administration, and this interest influenced a considerable vote on the Opposition side, although the main strength of the successful ticket was drawn from the Stockholders (or their proxies) opposed to the continuance of Mr. DANIEL DREW in the Management and the reelection of Mr. ROBERT H. BERDELL as a Director and the President of the Company. The Vice-President, Gen. A. S. DIVEN, was reëlected by common consent, and so was Mr. BANCROFT DAVIS, the Counsel of the Company.

This is the first successful opposition made to Mr. DREW and his absolute rule in the finances of the Road for ten years past. The result was wholly unexpected to the Street, as no longer ago than yesterday it was believed that by an appeal to Mr. VANDERBILT and his powerful Railway influence Mr. DREW had secured his own individual continuance in the Direction, while he would be compelled to acquiesce in throwing overboard the President, Mr. BERDELL, and most of his other old associates in the Board. Even after the overwhelming result of the Stockholders' meeting was known, an effort, backed by a formidable influence, was made to replace Mr. DREW in the Board of Direction through the declination of some one of its new members, and this, we understand, was finally accomplished at a late hour by the declination of Mr. UNDERWOOD at the preliminary meeting of the New Board; the friends of Mr. VANDERBILT, by the wish of that gentleman and on a very urgent personal appeal to his sympathies by Mr. DREW, consenting to this arrangement.

The Railway market was generally buoyant, though for a few hours in the forenoon Erie Stock fluctuated violently from 70½ down to 67½, and up again to 70¾@71 ℘ cent.—the lowest and highest points being made between the Board sales, in the Long Room of the Stock Exchange Building. At the latest Open Board of Brokers the sales were at 69⅞@69⅞ ℘ cent. After the adjournment at 4 o'clock sales were again made at 70@70⅛ ℘ cent. New-York Central and the Western Roads were partially unsettled by the ups and downs in Erie, but in the main the prices were firmer, and the buying very large for a further improvement in prices. Michigan Southern sold up to 85 ℘ cent.; St. Paul Common to 45⅛, and the Preferred to 67⅞ ℘ cent. Hudson River sold at 129 ℘ cent., ex the 4 ℘ cent. dividend, equal to 133 yesterday.

The Public Funds were not so firm as last night. The advance was not maintained by ⅛ ℘ cent. on the old 5-20s of 1862-65, May and November, and the new issues of 1865-67 were ¼ ℘ cent. lower.

The Gold market was quite steady; sales at 144⅞@145⅛, closing 145 ℘ cent. The Foreign Exchanges were also steady on the basis of 109¼@109⅜ ℘ cent. on London 60-day bills, and 109⅞@109⅞ for short sight. Money is loaned to the Brokers with a fair degree of freedom at 7 ℘ cent., and we hear of no difficulty in making loans at this rate. The market is wholly free of the pressure and excitement of last week. The Banks are more disposed to lend since their Quarterly Statements of yesterday. These Statements, by the way, as far as they have been advertised, show that the Banks now hold a larger amount of Legal Tender Notes than the average of last week; in the aggregate we should estimate a difference of at least $4,000,000 between the average of last week and the beginning of the present week.

COTTON—Has been in fair demand at essentially unaltered prices. Middling grades, 20c.@21½c., chiefly within the range, ℘ lb., on sales and resales of 1,700 bales, against receipts of 3,741 bales. The week's exports from this port have been 1,405 bales. Mr. WM. P. WRIGHT, in his circular of this date, for the Java, says: "In an article last week under this head we endeavored to account for the recent serious decline in the value of Cotton in Liverpool, and as a consequence, in all the markets in this country. We also expressed the opinion that unless planters marketed their crop of this year slowly and by degrees, a still further reduction is probable. The developments of another week confirm us in this view of the subject. The demand from England and the Continent will be light and at low prices. Our own spinners are buying only in small lots from hand to mouth. Speculators are timid, and owing to the disasters to many old and respectable houses in the trade, the facilities for moving the crop are seriously curtailed, nor can the banks of the North or South, even if willing, grant the necessary accommodation for moving any large quantity of the crop during the coming three or four months. The remedy is with the planters themselves, and the future price will depend somewhat upon how they hurry forward or hold back their crops. We are compelled to notice again the very trashy character of the new crop, as far as received. It is evidently caused by early ginning before the lint was thoroughly matured and dried; the result is a cut and uneven staple, with a light body. This will be remedied in the late receipts by and by.

DRY GOODS—The recent movements in this line have been on a restricted scale, and the general tendency of prices has been downward. The Independent says: "A. T. STEWART & Co., who have generally taken the lead in putting down prices, reduced their prices on American prints about 1c. ℘ yard; and, as these goods have been the firmest on the list, and have helped to sustain the market, the other kinds of domestic cottons, of course, immediately responded by a decline in some cases to the extent of 2½c. on certain styles of brown goods. There is nothing remarkable in this fall; for, while the raw material is daily declining in price, nothing but a very lively demand could have maintained prices for the manufactured article. The business of the week has been much lighter than it ought to have been, and no doubt considerable disappointment has been experienced; but no cause for alarm exists, for the jobbers are not heavily overstocked, nor is there anything like an unusual accumulation of goods in the hands of the commission houses and manufacturers' agents. And then the lightness of trade at the present time insures a continued demand later in the season than usual. The pressure in the money market was at its highest point on Saturday, and hereafter greater ease is expected. In most descriptions of brown sheetings a fall of at least one per cent. a yard has taken place, and any pressure to sell would lead to a still further decline. In the lighter makes of unbleached goods the demand is not so good as in the heavier qualities. In bleached shirtings there is less trade than in brown goods, and prices have declined from two to three cents; and this yielding of prices has not had the effect of inducing larger purchases. In drills, corset jeans, denims and cottonades, the demand is only moderate, and prices are not firmly maintained. Ginghams are more active, and cambrics, rolled jaconets and silesias are in moderate demand, without material change of price. Muslin delaines of good styles maintain their prices, but the demand is slack. The stock of shawls has become very large and the prices of the better kinds have been reduced. Italians and seasonable woollen cloths, except the better kinds of coatings, are not so firmly held as they were. Flannels keep up their rates, but the sales are limited. Blankets are in good demand at the revised rates, but sales are not so large as might naturally be expected at this season. Linens, of American manufacture, are steady at quoted prices. They are less liable to fluctuation of prices than any other description of domestic goods. No change of importance is to be noted in foreign goods. Prices of merinos and dress goods are a shade lower, and transactions in them are perhaps less in amount than they were last season. The importations and withdrawals from bonded warehouses are still large and the auction-rooms have been well supplied during the week with all descriptions of goods. The attendance has been good, but the sales have not been encouraging to importers. It is probable that a revival may take place this week, if the alleviation in the money market should be as great as has been anticipated."

FISH—The demand continues quite moderate within our former range.

FLOUR AND MEAL—State and Western Flour has been in better supply and moderate request at a partial reduction of 10c.@15c. ℘ bbl. Sales have been reported since our last of 15,850 bbls., including poor to choice Superfine State and Western at $8 90@$9 80; very poor to good extra State at $10 35@$11; good to choice extra State at $11@$11 50; poor to good shipping brands of round-hoop extra Ohio at $10 55@$11 50 ℘ bbl. We now quote:

Southern Flour is in light demand, at drooping prices; sales have been reported since our last of 670 bbls. at $10 65@$16 25 for common to very superior extra ℘ bbl. Canadian Flour inactive and nominal. Rye Flour is in better demand, at $7@$9 for inferior to very choice ℘ bbl.; sales 650 bbls. Corn Meal is in limited request at $6 50 for City, $6 75 for Jersey, and $6 90@$7 for Brandywine, ℘ bbl.; sales 300 bbls. Of California Flour sales were reported of 900 bbls. and sacks, at $11 75@$13 50 ℘ bbl. of 196 lbs.

GRAIN—Wheat has been in more demand at generally much firmer prices. Sales have been reported since our last, of 76,000 bushels, including White Michigan at $3 03; Amber Michigan and State at $2 75@$2 80; No. 1 Spring at $2 38@$2 40; No. 2 Spring at $2 32@$2 34½; rejected Spring at $2 19; and White California at $3 15 ℘ bushel. Corn has been less freely offered, and has been in fair demand, partly on speculative account, at a decided improvement in prices. Sales have been reported, since our last, of 104,000 bushels, at $1 37@$1 40, closing at $1 38@$1 40 for Mixed Western, afloat; $1 37@$1 40 for do., in store; and $1 35 for unsound, ℘ bushel. Rye has been scarce and wanted at firmer prices; sales 16,500 bushels, including Western, to arrive, at $1 65, and here, small lots, at $1 70; State, here, at $1 72 ℘ bushel. Barley has been in good demand, and very firm. Sales 27,000 bushels Canada West at $1 65 ℘ bushel. Barley has been slightly dealt in at $1 65 ℘ bushel. The seller's name, place of business, and the date of purchase, as well as the name of contents, with gross, tare and net weights, and shipping marks, to be hereafter designated, must be plainly marked on every package. All other old marks must be obliterated.

The coffee will be carefully inspected before its delivery, and compared with the retained samples. Returns of weights, signed by a professional public weigher, must be furnished.

Payment, as heretofore, to be made in such funds as may be furnished by the United States.

Contractors are expected to hold their goods, without expense to the United States, until required for shipment.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE ATLANTIC AND PACIFIC TELEGRAPH COMPANY.

The lines of this Company, being nearly completed between the Cities of New-York and Buffalo, the offices along the route will be opened for business on or before the 15th inst., at a reduced tariff of rates, based upon the theory that telegraphing, while it should be remunerative to the stockholders, must ultimately take the general level as to profits belonging to any legitimate business.

It is believed that a further reduction can be made, as our lines are extended to Chicago, St. Louis, and the commercial points South and West.

Through a business connection with the Franklin Company, our telegraphic communication, on opening to Buffalo, will be with Boston, Bangor, Portland, &c., East, and South and West, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Louisville, &c., and intermediate places.

By order of Executive Committee.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

EUROPE.

The Marquis DE MOUSTIER and the Chevalier DE NIGRA, Italian Ambassador, arrived in Italy just before the troubles broke out, and have been in constant consultation with the Emperor. It is reported that a plan has been agreed upon, in accordance with which the Italian Government is to take possession of the Papal Provinces, leaving to the Pope the Government of Rome during his lifetime. When he dies the temporal power of the Popes is to cease entirely.

The Garibaldian Volunteers are said to be marching upon Rome from all points, and the Florence Press calls upon the Government to occupy the city with National troops.

GARIBALDI has issued an address denouncing RATAZZI and calling upon his adherents to prosecute the war against Rome. It is reported that the American Minister, GEORGE P. MARSH, has interceded in behalf of GARIBALDI.

The officers of the Papal forces claim to have gained a victory over the insurgents in the late engagement at Bagnarea.

Fenian rumors continue to cause much anxiety in England and Ireland. On the occasion of the funeral of Col. KELLEY, one of the Fenian convicts who died in a Dublin prison, an immense crowd gathered around the building where the remains lay, and gave evidence of their sympathy. A large procession accompanied the remains to the grave.

Orders have been issued for the enlargement of the cadres of the French army. The Emperor intimates that he contemplates making liberal reforms in the Government.

A severe battle is reported to have taken place on the Turkish frontier between the Turks and the Montenegrins.

Mr. W. W. STORY, the American sculptor, has been selected to make the statue of GEORGE PEABODY, to be erected in London.

GENERAL.

Gen. SHERIDAN visited Lowell yesterday, where he met with a most enthusiastic reception. He was met at the depot by the Mayor and city officials, and a procession of militia, firemen, veteran soldiers and citizens, was formed to escort him to his hotel. The streets through which the procession passed were filled with people, who cheered the General loudly as he passed. He was welcomed to the city by Mayor RICHARDSON in a brief speech, and returned his thanks in a few words.

The Cunard steamship Java, which leaves Boston to-day, will take out six missionaries of the American Board, on their way to their respective foreign fields. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. SAUNDERS return to their old station in Ceylon, accompanied by Miss H. A. TOWNSEND, of Iowa; Rev. Mr. and Mrs. LOWRY are going to Syria, and Miss MARY G. HOLLISTER, of the last class in the Mt. Holyoke Seminary, is on her way to Aintab, in the Central Turkey Mission.

LOCAL.

At the meeting of the Board of Excise yesterday there were 24 cases of alleged violation of the Excise Law on the calendar, of which two were dismissed and three were indefinitely postponed. Eight licenses were revoked and eleven cases were adjourned. In the course of the trials the point was raised by counsel that where a criminal Court acquits an alleged offender against the Excise Law, the verdict is binding upon the Board of Excise, inasmuch as the same rule is held to be good where a conviction by a criminal Court is the result. The matter was referred to counsel for the Board, who was directed to report at the next meeting. The Board adjourned to Tuesday next.

The Grand Jury in the Court of Oyer and Terminer was impaneled yesterday morning, and after being charged by Judge INGRAHAM, retired. The main point in the charge had reference to the obstruction of the public streets, and the Judge instructed the jury that in every instance of the kind they are to act upon it, whether the offenders have a permit from the Common Council, or not—as such permits are worthless in the eye of the law—the only body authorized to grant such privilege being the State Legislature. The Court adjourned until 11 o'clock this morning.

The case of GEORGE W. KIERSTED vs. ANDREW CLERK and WILLIAM F. CLERK, reported in the TIMES yesterday, was disposed of by Judge WELLES dismissing the complaint of the plaintiff, on the ground that the letter alleged to have been libelous, was a privileged communication, and that in the absence of any positive proof of malice on the part of the defendants, the action could not, in its present shape, be maintained. The amount of damages claimed was $25,000. The letter in question was published in full in our columns Tuesday.

Dr. HARRIS' weekly letter to the Board of Health, yesterday, speaks of the gratifying decrease of foul-air diseases in New-York and Brooklyn during the past week. In some of the most notably malarious localities of both cities, typhoid fever and fatal lung diseases are prevalent. It is believed that the yellow fever epidemic at the South has passed its crisis, and is now on the wane. Allusion is made to the humane labors of Howard Associations, Sisters of Charity, medical men, and others, on behalf of the sufferers.

Mr. A. A. LOW was entertained at a banquet at the Fifth-avenue Hotel last evening by the members of the Chamber of Commerce. In response to a toast he gave a very interesting account of his recent visit to China and Japan, and of the continuation of his trip, making the circle of the globe. Some eighty gentlemen were present. Speeches were made by Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, and others. The banquet, which did not begin until 9:30 o'clock, did not terminate until a very late hour.

The examination in the case of Mr. AHEARN, of the Evening Gazette, against Mr. SWEETZER, of the Evening Mail, which was to have taken place yesterday before Recorder HACKETT, was postponed till to-day in consequence of the absence of District-Attorney HALL, who was engaged in public business elsewhere.

Several important seizures have just been made by the officers of the Internal Revenue. One of these is a tobacco factory in Raymond-street, Brooklyn, another a distillery in Washington-avenue, same city, and still another a distillery in Franklin-avenue, on the charge of being deficient in returns 50,000 gallons.

At the Court of Special Sessions yesterday, there were fifteen charges of assault and battery, seventeen of petit larceny, one of aiding a prisoner to escape, five of keeping disorderly houses, one of misdemeanor, one of cruelty to animals and one of gaming.

At the Court of General Sessions yesterday three cases were disposed of by Judge RUSSEL. Three prisoners were sent to the State Prison and two were remanded for sentence. The Court then adjourned until Monday next.

The Mozart Judiciary Convention last night nominated ALBERT CARDOZO for Judge of the Supreme Court.

A lively speculative inquiry prevailed yesterday for the leading kinds of Breadstuffs, chiefly for Grain, which was generally quoted much higher. Provisions were less active and depressed. Cotton was steady and moderately sought after. Refined Petroleum in bond was more active. Freights were brisker and firmer.

The South and the Political Revolution.

We published a few days since a letter from Gen. BARRINGER, of North Carolina, urging the South to accept, or, at all events, to acquiesce in, the Congressional plan of reconstruction. It embodied many very cogent and powerful reasons why such a course should be pursued. Laying aside all questions of feeling,—all criminations and recriminations for the wrongs and sufferings of the past, he insisted that the very existence of the South depended upon her acquiescence in the policy of the victorious power to which she had been compelled to yield, and he cited the successive steps of suffering and of loss, by which her successive refusals so to do had been resented and punished by the conquering and dominant party,—until it has finally culminated in enforced negro suffrage, the disfranchisement of a large portion of the white voters, and the subjection of the Southern States to military rule. And he pointed, by way of warning, to the certainty that, if the South still refuses acquiescence, she will be subjected inevitably to increased suffering and humiliation.

All this is clearly and undeniably true. It is very easy to say, and to prove, that it ought not to be so,—but all the argument in the world will not disprove the fact. It is quite clear to everybody that the war is ended and that the North and South ought to resume their old feelings and their old relations;—but the fact is they do not resume them, and all the logic in the world will not alter that fact. It seems to our minds perfectly clear that all the passion which the war aroused, all the resentments which its horrors engendered, all the hatreds which followed in its track ought to subside and no longer influence the action of either section toward the other;—but they have not subsided, nevertheless: they are still active, powerful and unrelenting. The action of Congress, and of the people of the loyal States, is still largely controlled—not by their calm and sober judgment as to the requirements of justice and public policy,—but by the feelings and sentiments which the war engendered, and which a thousand things,—the provocations of the South, the action of the President, the appeals of public speakers and the public Press, the schemes of demagogues and the reckless ambition of selfish and unscrupulous partisan leaders,—continue to keep alive.

The truth is neither section, and but few persons in either section, appreciate fully the tremendous effect of Civil War, and especially of such a war as ours, upon every interest and every sentiment of the whole community. One might as well expect order and symmetry in the architecture of a great city after an earthquake, as to look for cool judgment and sober reason the moment the thunders of such a War have died away. The contest touches everything, and leaves nothing as it found it. Great rights, great interests, great systems of habit and of thought, disappear during its progress. It leaves us a different people in everything from what we were when it came upon us. The War created a perfect Revolution in the public mind,—in our modes of thinking on public questions and of dealing with political and social interests. Slavery once seemed to us a gigantic evil,—protected from our hatred only by the Constitution; but it disappeared so suddenly and so completely, that our respect for what was so long its bulwark is no longer what it was. The power which destroyed Slavery in spite of the Constitution, seems to us greater than the Constitution itself. And the general effect of the war has been very greatly to weaken our respect for all the forms and provisions of fundamental law, which stand between the will of the people and the objects which they think ought to be accomplished. The War has ended, but the Revolution has not. The victory of the North at once demonstrated its power and stimulated the determination to use it. It was not easy for the conquering party to throw down their weapons the moment they had achieved their victory. There were too many things which ought still to be accomplished, for them to stop short suddenly in what had proved to be so brilliant and so successful a career. THADDEUS STEVENS expressed the general sentiment of the North much more accurately than he supposed, or than the North would admit, when he said in Congress that, having got rid of all constitutional restrictions and limitations of power by the war, Congress should not restore the Union as our fathers had made it, but should seize the opportunity to reconstruct it, and make it what it should be.

The country in its political action to-day is following, not the dictates and prescriptions of the Constitution, but what it deems the necessities and requirements of the political emergency. Arguments drawn from the Constitution, from the precedents of our history or the opinions of the statesmen of our earlier days, are heard with impatience and dismissed with contempt. A public writer or a public speaker incurs only derision by insisting upon anything in the past,—laws, usages or anything else,—as conclusive in regard to anything that is of the present. Even the past pledges of political parties have no more vitality or force than the old newspapers in which they are recorded. Every thing said or done before the war is as dead as if it were done before the flood. That great catastrophe swept away everything that was old, and gave us a new political heaven and a new political earth. And all our views of public affairs, all our action on political subjects, all our judgments of the present and our speculations about the future, are colored and controlled by this great fact.

We do not say that this is right, but it is a fact. It may not be constitutional, but it is actual. Perhaps the country ought not to be thus governed—but it is and will be—not because it is in accordance with abstract reason and justice, but because it is in accordance with the instincts and impulses of human nature. Of course a reaction may come, but only from the excesses into which the dominant party, made arrogant by its power, may be betrayed; and every attempt to produce a reaction in advance of its time only strengthens the party against which it is aimed. But for the Philadelphia Convention, the President's blind and blundering resistance, the frantic determination of the Democratic Party to recover power, and the discontented and arrogant temper which all these movements inspired in the South, the Union would probably have been restored, and the Southern States in the possession of their political rights, a year ago. They are still relying upon a "reaction." Misled to-day, just as they have been misled ever since the war closed, by the prospect of Democratic victories and the promise of Executive aid, the Southern States resist the Congressional plan of reconstruction and take the chances of the future. Fortunately they cannot defeat it. The plan will be carried out, and the Southern States will be restored to political power and to representation in Congress, though, unfortunately for themselves, this is likely to be done without the coöperation and aid of those who ought to share in controlling their public affairs.

An Old Abuse Abroad.

An old abuse, which the London Law Times calls "one of the greatest of official abuses in the law which have grown up in modern times," has recently been dragged to light in England, and will probably be remedied, for, as we all know, the first step toward reforming an old abuse is to make it public. This one was in the enormous receipts of the Middlesex Registry Office—an office established a century and a half ago, to provide a registry of land transfers in the County of Middlesex, in which London is situated. Some time since the public attention was called to the fact that the office was a nest of sinecures, and the Treasury Solicitor was at last directed by the Government to look into the matter and report. There were three Registrars in the office, and the gist of the report was to be found in the statement, that they received from the office incomes of about £2,500 a year apiece, without doing a particle of work, except to audit the accounts, draw checks for the salaries of the deputies, &c., who did the work; and divide the income of the office among themselves.

The office, as we have said, was created a century and a half ago; but it must not be understood that the abuse in its present dimensions was as old as the office. On the contrary, the case is a very good instance of a not uncommon process, viz.: an abuse springing up out of what was well enough when it began, but by no means adapted to the present state of things, and in which no change had been made to meet the enormous changes which time brings upon society. At the outset the Registrars received about £50 apiece, and no one would say that that sum was large for those who had charge of any registry office. In 1756 the Registrars divided about £500 between them, which was still not large pay, and even if it had been made public then, probably would not have led to any change in the office. But the increase of population and business in the county increased the business and profits of the office enormously. While in 1709 there were but 639 memorials filed, in 1866 there were 28,233, and what with the fees for recording these and for satisfying mortgages and for searching, it is no wonder if the profits of the office swelled during that time from £150 to about £15,000.

It is not at all surprising that with this great abuse had grown up other abuses which were not even legal in form, by reason of which fees were charged for which there was no shadow of justification. The holding of such places never tends to make the incumbent more scrupulous and careful as to what he calls upon others to pay him, but generally the contrary. This greediness happily tends to defeat itself, and it was not the enormous amount of the fees of the office, but the illegality of the charges in special cases, and the failure to perform duties which were clearly incumbent upon the Registrars and the general inefficiency of the work done, which at last excited some one to indignation and thus raised discussion, and resulted in this public exposure of the facts.

We wonder if there is not possibly room for a similar inquiry and reform in relation to transfers of property in our City. We strongly suspect that such an inquiry would uncover a state of things which would be admitted to be entirely unendurable.

We should not probably find abuses of as long standing or as greatly aggravated as this Middlesex Registry; but it must be borne in mind that changes are far more rapid and far greater here than there, and that, as a matter of course, abuses spring up more easily and develop more quickly. This kaleidoscopic civilization of ours has its disadvantages as well as its advantages, and eternal vigilance is more than ever the price of liberty.

It would be an interesting thing for the Legislature or for the Constitutional Convention, when it comes together, to secure reliable information as to the receipts of our Registry Office, and in fact of all our county offices. Perhaps that information would account, if it needed explanation, for the intensity of the scramble which we see every year as the Fall elections draw near.

Napoleon the Third.

NAPOLEON the Third is constantly getting himself into new embarrassments through his attempts to play the rôle of regulator of the world. Whether or not his Uncle ever had any idea of conquering the human race, and making himself Universal Dictator, there is no doubt that his Uncle's Nephew believes, or rather has believed, it to be his fate to exercise a sort of dictatorship over the nations. The extent of his assumptions in this direction has been such as might well astonish mankind; and now that at so many points his pretensions are being overthrown, it seems strange that his audacity should have enabled him to travel so far beyond the distance where his power could sustain him.

This Italian affair is the latest of NAPOLEON'S troubles from his universal and endless attempts at interference. Of course along with his other duties, he took upon himself the guardianship of the Pope. Not that he cared a fig for the Pope, but that the position of Protector was one which gave him glory throughout the Catholic world as well as power in France, while, on the other hand, the Pope might have opportunities to repay him for a service which was essential to Papal existence. When he withdrew his troops last year from Rome, where they had been for eighteen years, he did not withdraw his protectoral authority. He proclaimed that he was still as ever the defender of the Head of the Church, and that, let assault come from what quarter it might, his shield would be held constantly ready for the defence of the Sovereign Pontiff. He did not wish to enter into a treaty with Austria, Spain, Italy and the other Catholic Powers to guarantee the rights of the Papal Chair; he desired to be the sole guarantor himself, as well as the sole judge when those rights were infringed. It was in the nature of things that difficulties should arise from this, just as it was in the nature of things that difficulties should arise from his attempts at dictation and interference in other quarters. Nations, like individuals, only tolerate dictation until they find the opportunity of abolishing it, one way or another; and in the complications of European politics, it is a feeble cause indeed which does not, in a few years, find the chance of asserting itself. The Romans, or rather the Italians, have felt that the French protectorate of Rome, actual or assumed, was not only an insult and a menace, but was something which made the claim of independent nationality a mere pretence; and though Italian statesmen have felt the Kingdom too insecure to venture upon a protest, it was perfectly well known to everybody that they would only endure the yoke till such time as they could safely throw it off. It seems not unlikely that things in Europe may now shape themselves so as to furnish an opportunity to Italy such as Germany found and seized last year.

Limited though our knowledge be about events and complications on the European Continent during the last week or ten days, we know that things are in such a way as may at any moment bring the French protectorate over Rome to a decisive trial; and there are not a few signs that the trial will be of such a nature as not to be forgotten by the would-be dictator, who has lately been thwarted in so many of his projects for regulating the world. The Garibaldian outbreaks may not be of a very formidable character, but when we find that at their very beginning NAPOLEON directs his troops to be held in readiness to embark for Rome; when we find, in addition, that the Pope and VICTOR EMMANUEL have quarreled about the defence of the Papal territory; and when, beside all this, it is reported that the Italian Government has appealed to the Great Powers of Europe (with a particular eye to Prussia) against the provisions of the September treaty, which bind Italy to prevent any infraction of the temporal dominion of the Pope,—it may be taken for granted that affairs have reached a crisis in which the powers of diplomacy are very nearly exhausted.

There is no reason why NAPOLEON should trouble himself, above all the rest of mankind, to regulate this Roman question. Had it not been for his interference it might have been permanently settled years ago. With the Pope exercising his spiritual authority in Rome as the head of the Church, and with VICTOR EMMANUEL as sovereign of United Italy, things would have quickly arranged themselves to the satisfaction of all concerned, and GARIBALDI would have continued cultivating cabbages at Caprera.

NAPOLEON can need but one more lesson to teach him that he was not created to be the regulator of the world; and that, though for a time he may have fancied his will to be the law of nations, yet there are forces in human nature which must insure his overthrow, as certainly as they secured the overthrow of the world-wide ambition of his Uncle. It is but a few years since he not only asserted his supremacy in Europe, but thought to make it felt in America and in Asia. He would dictate to Italy, both as regards her external and internal policy; he would dictate to Prussia and the German States; he would patronize Austria and England; he would give directions to Belgium, Holland and Spain; he would threaten to resurrect Poland, to raise Hungary, to create an Iberian Kingdom; he would look ominously toward the Czar, and insinuate to the Turk that he would be better off if Egypt were a French Province. He would cross the seas, menace the United States, and create a French dependency in Mexico; and, traveling to the ends of the earth, he would plant his flag in Cochin-China, and threaten to extend his dominion in the Orient till it was coextensive with his ambition.

It was this country which first pricked his pretensions; and in carrying on his schemes against ourselves and against Mexico, he got his first instruction in a lesson, in which, as we have said, he ought soon to be perfected. Last year, Prussia dealt his assumptions a tremendous blow, and BISMARCK has followed it up with others so thick and fast, that now he has nothing to learn in that quarter. And so we might recite events till we came to the present hour, when circumstances seem to be forming for an alliance between Italy and Prussia and the other Protestant Powers, which will demonstrate to NAPOLEON that he can no longer be dictator beyond the bounds of France.

MINOR TOPICS.

A Florence dispatch dated yesterday announces that the Garibaldians are marching upon Rome from every direction. Every day lately has shown that the movements of the revolutionists were becoming more formidable and threatening; and the fact that, though a success is claimed for the Papal troops in one of the fights, they are unable to prevent the advance of the enemy toward the capital is certainly an ominous circumstance. In the meanwhile the French and Italian Governments are attempting some sort of new negotiations about the Pope. It is reported that a proposition is under discussion to dispose of his case by confining his temporal authority to the City of Rome, and providing that after his death the temporal power of the Papacy shall cease. But, then, neither the Pope nor the Garibaldians have approved of this suggestion, and there is danger that before they get through with their present difficulty it may be entirely impracticable. The diplomatists had better hasten their labors to a conclusion; and if either VICTOR EMMANUEL or NAPOLEON intends to dispatch troops for the salvation of the Pope, it is evidently time they were on the march. It is very doubtful, however, whether such a step would terminate the present troubles.

The whisky speculators are irrepressible. Failing in their efforts to secure the retention of Col. MESSMORE on the Metropolitan Revenue Board, or the appointment of a convenient instrument of their own in his place, they are now turning their attention to the reconstruction of the Board itself. A dispatch states that they seek to "dispense with the District-Attorneys" who are now members of the Board. That would be a nice little arrangement, but the chances of their success in bringing it about are not brilliant.

We have not thought it worth while to take notice of the systematic and vehement assaults of the Herald upon the Associated Press, as it seemed to us a subject of little interest or importance to the public at large. The statement in yesterday's Herald that the Association has suspended its rule in regard to the receipt of special dispatches, is utterly untrue. The rule remains as it has been from the beginning. So also does the rule requiring unanimous consent for the restoration to membership of any newspaper which ceases to belong to the Association, either by voluntary withdrawal or by being expelled for violation of its rules. The Herald may be interested in remembering this.

What does the Express mean by speaking of "the opinion of the TIMES" that the Mrs. Lincoln affair "should be hushed up as soon as possible, and that a quarter or half a million of dollars should be raised for Mrs. LINCOLN, if she will agree to give up all papers of a public nature relating to her late husband now in her possession?" We never mentioned the proposition but to brand it as in every way detestable. We hope nobody will give Mrs. LINCOLN a solitary dollar to "hush up" anything she may have to reveal. If individuals feel that they have anything to fear they will, perhaps, yield to this black-mailing raid, but the public and the Republican Party have nothing to fear from it.

A Boston "ovation" seems to be a fearful thing. The Boston papers of yesterday contain shocking accounts of the scenes enacted by the street mob on the reception of SHERIDAN. One report gives the details of the "shameful and disgusting conduct" of the roughs, who, we are told, were "here, there and almost everywhere, constituting the chief element of the crowd." We are told that a large number of ladies were crowded down, run over, trod upon, and very severely injured, and to show that this is not exaggerated, it is noted that ten of the wounded were carried into a stable, eight into BAKER'S house, three into another house, twenty were carried into drug-stores, and many were taken home in carriages. One lady had her leg broken, and another was so severely injured by being tramped beneath the surging crowd that she is not expected to live. Compare this disgraceful conduct of a Boston street crowd with the conduct of even the most tremendous street crowds in New-York. Women are never subjected to rudeness or maltreatment by a New-York crowd. Boston is constantly boasting its superiority in manners and morals to New-York; but it evidently does not know how to behave itself in a crowd.

The Round Table in praising a new edition of Boswell's Life of Johnson, says that the "letter-press, very beautiful to look upon, is even smaller than the diamond editions now so popular," and our contemporary makes a suggestion to prevent the fineness of the print from hurting the reader's eyes: "This is the use of a magnifying glass of sufficient size to prevent continual shifting as one reads." We always supposed this fine print business would come to some such point, and if publishers continue to diminish the size of their type, we shall have to procure microscopes to read even the titles of the new books.

The "cheap eating-houses" of New-York have been so much abused in times past that there now seems to be a determination on the part of nearly all the restaurants to charge such prices as to make the old designation ridiculous. The prices of the more respectable restaurants are out of all proportion to the cost of the materials served up; and even when additions are made for labor, rents and legitimate profits, there is still a wide margin left for the imagination. Some time ago a lowering of the scale of prices was promised, but the change, if made at all, has been quite imperceptible. In the chief cites of Great Britain, such as London, Glasgow and Liverpool, respectable dining saloons for the industrial classes have within the last year or two been established by associations of intelligent capitalists, the prices at which are such as to amaze us beyond measure. To their proprietors, and in a pecuniary point of view, they have proved eminent successes, and to their patrons they are a highly appreciated benefaction. Even thrice their prices would be cheap in New-York, and we should like to see places on their plan tried here. This used to be the country of cheap and plentiful food.

Broadway was exceedingly lively and charming yesterday with promenaders and gay costumes, while the fashionable parts of up-town and the Central Park were thronged with handsome turn-outs and adorned with rich equipages. The day was divine, and the beauties of nature were such as to delight the dullest soul. Whatever attracts the people to the open air in such weather as this, is a benefit to the public sanity!

We think the New-Orleans Board of School Directors have done perfectly right in providing separate school-rooms and teachers for the education of colored children. We do not see what good would be effected by compelling the whites to associate with the blacks, against the will of either of the parties. It would not tend to the bringing about of amicable feeling, nor would it secure that social fraternization which some people believe so desirable. We rather think that compulsory association would be injurious to both races, and that from it would arise, in the end, greater exclusiveness on the part of the whites.

How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless father! The unnatural conduct of REGAN and GONERIL is mild compared with that of ALEXANDRE DUMAS toward ALEXANDRE DUMAS, fils. "You haven't seen your son in a long time?" asked somebody, as the Paris story goes, of the veteran novelist. "Oh, no," was the reply; "since my mishaps we do not meet, and he says to our mutual friends, 'The name I have tried so hard to make illustrious my father spoils.'" Surely, there was never a clearer case of that "marble-hearted fiend, ingratitude," than in this unparental conduct of the elder DUMAS. The worst of it is that there is as much truth as humor in the story. DUMAS is wasting his name by sensationalism, and what with his Menken follies and other advertising dodges, is getting to be a bad old fellow. DUMAS the younger had better at once send his undutiful old parent over here, where, in the rude simplicities of these Western wilds, he will escape the extravagances and the temptations of Paris.

Besides the military preparations for the coming war in Europe, we notice the growth of agencies for increasing the humanities of war on the battle-field. We believe that all the military Powers have now agreed to the international union for the care and succor of the wounded, as proposed by the Geneva Conference two or three years ago. We also observe that the Brothers of Saint Jean-de-Dieu, who devote their lives to the care of the mad, to blind children and incurables, have accepted the charitable and dangerous mission proposed to them—that of volunteer hospital men in case of war, in connection with the Geneva Association. It is probable that these good Brothers will wear the red cross of Geneva on their breasts, and resemble the Knights Templar of the Middle Ages.

The growth and progress of political reform in the Austrian Empire, during the last year, are among the most remarkable things in the recent internal polity of any of the European nations. The military system, the political system, the financial system, and, in fact, the entire organic framework of the ancient Austrian Empire, have been reorganized and reformed; and if Austria enjoys a few years of peace, she may reappear as a greater and stronger Power than ever. Baron VON BEUST is proving himself an exceedingly able statesman, and he has evidently less fear of free principles than either BISMARCK or NAPOLEON. The military disasters of a country have rarely produced such beneficent results as Austria has gathered from Sadowa.

The two statements which have been formally put forth by the Secretary of the Treasury—one in reference to the gold payment of the Five-twenty bonds, and the other in reference to alleged frauds in the issue of public stocks—are of such a character as to increase the public faith in the national credit. In making the declaration that "the faith of the Government is pledged to pay the Five-twenty bonds when they are paid in coin," he places himself directly against both BUTLER and PENDLETON; but as he has a vast majority of the American people on his side, we may consider that his position is as strong practically as it is strong morally. Besides this, it was not unnecessary for the Secretary to declare officially that the stories that have been so industriously circulated in regard to abstractions or over-issues of stocks, notes, coupons and currency, or of any one of them, or of any other obligation of the Government, are entirely without any foundation in truth or in fact. Though he authorized a denial of these canards when they were first let loose, they continue to be repeated every now and then, with additions and changes. So far as this matter is concerned, nothing more is now required. But it would be very much in place for Congress, at the coming session, to put forth an authoritative declaration that the principal of the Five-twenty bonds is payable in coin. The simple fact that its intent in the matter can be doubted by BUTLER, PENDLETON and other political leaders, is proof that a more specific statement is required.

We shall hope soon to see a great trial of competitive war-steamers, if, as is said, the Wampanoag's machinery will soon be in condition to allow it. Over four years ago, the Government started to build two ships of precisely the same dimensions. DELANO, the builder, turned out two admirable live-oak hulls, and the Wampanoag and Madawaska are probably as beautiful models as were ever constructed. The object of their building was to furnish a competition between two sets of machinery constructed by different builders. That this competition might be thoroughly decisive, the boilers were made exactly alike, and hence the only rivalry is between the engines. Over a year ago, the Madawaska was finished, and is said to have showed herself to be the fastest screw war-ship in the world. But, of course, the only way to test the two rival engines is to run the two ships together in a match upon the sea. We trust that the Secretary of the Navy will see that this is done as soon as the Wampanoag is ready, as important principles are involved in the competition. The late splendid English trial of the Arethusa, Octavia and Constance, was of inestimable value to the British Admiralty in determining between rival engine builders. As is the case with our own two competing ships, the three British ships just mentioned had precisely the same hulls and same boilers, so that the engine might be squarely tested.

The London Chronicle complains that the English character for good taste and courtesy is endangered on the Continent by the silly practical jokes of English travelers of wealth and rank. At Bergen a British peer whirled a watchman's box on its pivot while the occupant was within. In this case the practical joker was paid for his jest with a knock-down that laid him up in the hospital for several weeks. At Vienna a sentinel was seized by a party of English tourists and set up on his head in his box. The offenders were arrested and expelled from the Austrian Empire. Foreign critics charge that there is a coarse fibre in the English character, and that Englishmen who think themselves above restraint are apt to be insolent in their mirth and somewhat brutal in their disregard for consequences,—a charge which the Chronicle admits to be unpleasantly near the truth.

Senatorial Nomination.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Tuesday, Oct. 8.

At the Republican Senatorial Convention for the Fifteenth District, held in this city to-day, Hon. ADAM W. KLINE, of Amsterdam, was unanimously renominated for State Senator.

WASHINGTON.

AFFAIRS AT THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

THE PRESIDENCY.

The evening Administration organ here announces that the meeting for the ratification of the nomination of ANDREW JOHNSON for President and Gen. WILLIAM T. SHERMAN for Vice-President, which was appointed for the 10th inst., has been postponed until the 18th prox., when it will be held in the Capitol. The announcement is made with a great splurge of italics and small caps, and creates considerable surprise, as but few people knew that such nominations were ever made. The fact is, that the Louisiana political bushwhackers, who have been here off and on for nearly a year trying to oust all the Federal office-holders in the Pelican State, got on a spree at Crystal Springs some months since, and resolved themselves into a political party, numbering, all told, not over a baker's dozen, and made the nominations. They agreed that they would meet at some future occasion for the purpose of ratifying their action, but unfortunately for their object, a few of them got sober and failed to come to time. The result was that the bottom fell through, and the new party of the future went to pieces. The announcement above mentioned has about as much foundation as the Runic inscription hoax, with which the same paper was most egregiously sold.

SECRETARY MC CULLOCH.

It is reported to-day that a large number of the National Banks in the country have joined in with the whisky dealers in the effort to displace Secretary MCCULLOCH, their object being to prevent the early return to specie payment indicated by the Secretary's policy.

SOLDIERS' AND SAILOR'S UNION.

At a meeting of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Union held here last night a resolution of thanks was voted Gen. GRANT, Secretary of War ad interim, for the just and proper discrimination in honor of the soldier that he has made in the reduction of the force under his control.

PERSONAL.

Senator MORGAN, of New-York, arrived here to-day.

Gen. SHERMAN's movements to-day were void of interest. He has not yet discovered why the President sent for him.

The elections to-day in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Iowa have been the great topic of conversation, and never before has betting on the result been so lively. Crowds are assembled to-night at all the newspaper offices, and the greatest excitement prevails. Several political clubs received dispatches from all quarters, and up to a late hour the streets were thronged with people in eager search of the news. No disturbances have occurred, and beyond high words and heated discussions of political moths the night is passing quietly.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEES.

The various Regular and Special Committees of the House of Representatives are preparing their work in order to be ready to report at the next session. The Committee on Elections has been holding a session at Bridgeport, Conn., under the Chairmanship of Mr. DAWES, of Massachusetts, investigating the alleged corrupt practices in the election of Mr. W. H. BARNUM to Congress, and has adjourned to meet at Falls Village, Conn., on the 15th inst. A portion of the same Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mr. SCOFIELD, of Pennsylvania, meets at Lexington, Ky., on the 11th inst., to carry out the investigation as to the alleged disloyalty of the representatives elect from that State. A Sub-Committee of the Judiciary Committee assembles to-morrow at its room in the Capitol, to commence the investigation assigned to it, namely: As to whether the State of Maryland possesses a republican form of government. The Select Committee on the Maltreatment of Union Prisoners of War commenced its session at Boston on the 15th inst., under the Chairmanship of Mr. SHANKS, of Indiana. Nothing definite has transpired as to the proposed action of Gen. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER'S Select Committee on the Assassination of Ex-President LINCOLN. The Select Committee on the Southern Railroads proceed South from this city on the 16th inst. under the Chairmanship of Mr. MCCLURG, of Missouri.

SECRETARY SEWARD.

Secretary SEWARD left here this evening for New York. He will visit his birth-place in Orange County, and thence proceed to Auburn, on domestic business. He is accompanied by Postmaster-General RANDALL, and by his son, Col. SEWARD.

MINISTER ROMERO.

Minister ROMERO will leave Washington on Saturday for Charleston, whence he will sail for Vera Cruz. The steamship Wilderness has been placed at his disposal by this Government. Señor ROMERO's mother and sister and ENLEBALLADO, attaché of the Legation, accompany him. The Wilderness leaves Charleston on Monday, and will touch at no other port.

THE JAPANESE RAM STONEWALL.

A letter received in this city from Commander GEORGE BROWN, commanding the Japanese ram Stonewall, dated at Bridgetown, Barbadoes, on the 15th of September, states that they arrived there on the 7th of September, after nine days' passage from Hampton Roads, and would sail again on the 18th of that month. The vessel behaved very well during the passage, and they experienced very fine weather.

THE MENOMONIE INDIANS.

M. L. MARTIN, Indian Agent for the Menomonies, reports, under date of the 31 inst., to the Indian Office, that matters are quiet among those tribes, and they are following their usual occupations. With the exception of a few deaths from consumption, they have been in the enjoyment of good health. There is no epidemic among them. The deaths during September were generally victims of consumption, which is common among the half-civilized Indians and half-breeds.

THE JAPANESE COMMISSIONERS.

The Secretary of State has received the following:

YEDDO, Japan, 19th, 1867—Third year Kumo.

The undersigned beg to inform your Excellency of their safe arrival in Japan, after a pleasant voyage, on the 26th of July.

Their warmest thanks for the kind reception tendered, for the attention extended to them in the United States, and for the attention extended to them during their stay in America.

They cannot help adding that the speedy and successful result of the business with which they were intrusted was mainly due to your Excellency's kindness and benevolence.

The undersigned also beg to present their compliments to Hon. F. W. SEWARD.

ONO TOMAGORO.
MATSMONE JUDAYA.

To Hon. WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

PROCLAMATION BY THE PRESIDENT.

By the President of the United States of America:

A PROCLAMATION.

Whereas, It has been ascertained that in the fifteenth paragraph of the proclamation of the President of the United States of the twentieth day of August, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six, declaring the insurrection heretofore existing in the State of Texas [illegible] proclamation [illegible] eight hundred and sixty-five [illegible] second of April [illegible] sixty-five, was [illegible]

Now, therefore, be it known that I, ANDREW JOHNSON, President of the United States, do hereby declare and proclaim that the words, "thirteenth of June, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-five," are to be regarded as erroneous in the paragraph adverted to, and that the words, "second day of April, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-six," are to be considered as substituted therefor.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this seventh day of October, in the year of our Lord one

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy of Music—Italian Opera.

"Lucia di Lammermoor" was given by Mr. MARETZEK's artists last evening. Although this exceedingly sentimental opera has long ceased to have any very strong hold upon the public, it always commands a good audience, and will ever be listened to with pleasure. It is by all odds the tenor's opera, and yet there are few light sopranos who have visited this City who have not impersonated at some time or other Edgardo's "bella alma inamorata." Last evening Senora PERALTA assumed the rôle of Lucia, for the first time this season, and Signor BARAGLI sang the music of Edgardo as well as he could—which was much better, perhaps, than some tenors could sing. Nevertheless, he was not so effective as ANASTASI (who was first announced for the part) would have been. The rehearsals of the "Huguenots," now in progress, prove too exhaustive for the latter artist, however, and so he was excused from last evening's performance. The character of Edgardo is no doubt a little out of fashion just now, but it is hardly likely that it ever would have been in fashion if it had always been played as tamely as Signor BARAGLI plays it. Something else besides mere pretty singing is required to make the part interesting. The composer and the librettist have certainly done their share toward this result,—for DONIZETTI always keeps closely to his story—eschewing musical and choregraphic interludes and musical hors d'œuvres of all kinds, and yet he has always written to please, and has succeeded in pleasing, the great majority of persons. He tells his tale charmingly, taking care never to be too grave—even when a considerable amount of gravity would seem to be required by the nature of his subject. Senora PERALTA is at least heard to advantage in this opera, even if she is not seen to advantage. She is brilliant, if she cannot be sentimental, and she sings to perfection if she cannot act. In the episode of the malediction and in the mad scene, the vocalism was superb. Such ornamentation as Senora PERALTA's has not been employed in the Academy for a long while. Signor BELLINI, as Ashton, sang with his usual warmth, and Signor BARILI, who was intrusted with the little part of Raimondo, did the little he had to do very creditably.

To-night, Mr. MARETZEK introduces at the Academy the new German star, Madame JANAUSCHEK, in "Medea."

Arthur Sketchley at Irving Hall.

Mr. HARRISON has announced two readings by ARTHUR SKETCHLEY at Irving Hall, to take place next week, and that distinguished light of contemporaneous English humorous literature announces that these readings will comprise selections from the sayings and doings of "Mrs. Brown"—a lady of whose character and name he has been making rather "light" for some time back. Indeed, his interference with the private affairs of that living sister of Sairey Gamp and Betsey Prig—"likewise Mrs. Harris," has called forth the following indignant appeal from the identical "Mrs. Brown," which she addresses

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Bowery Theatre.

Mr. MORTIMER MURDOCK—announced as "a great favorite in London, Liverpool and Glasgow"—made his first appearance at this theatre on Monday evening, in the play of "Louis XI." He repeated his performance of this conscience-stricken King—upon whom history has conferred an enviable title not supported by his deeds—was effective, as the term is understood by the audiences at this ancient temple. Mr. CHARLES KEAN has evidently been Mr. MURDOCK's model in more scenes than one,—nevertheless, and in spite of this, his performance was much applauded. His reception was cordial to an extreme. Mr. MURDOCK's engagement will continue through the week—and is likely to be very profitable. This theatre has been quite thoroughly overhauled since it passed into the hands of Mr. FRELEIGH, and is now odorous and clean. The performances, no matter how frequently changed, appear to be well rehearsed, and pass off with fewer hitches than we have noticed in some representations on Broadway.

POLITICAL.

A Southern View of the Impeachment Question.

From the Charleston (S. C.) Courier.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Oct. 1, 1867.

Nothing in the immediate future is more certain than the impeachment of the President as soon as Congress meets. Everything that has occurred since the July session has tended to that end. The President has dared and defied it by his own acts since July. He stirred up the flagging forces of the Radical faction by renewed and repeated irritation. With singular inaptitude he recalled SHERIDAN and SICKLES from harmless positions and sent them on an electioneering tour through the country to excite and reorganize and bring into the field against himself the vast masses of the Radical Party. The scheme has worked marvelously well for the Radical interests.

Our Conservative friends do not yet despair of the Fall elections, but they are less sanguine than they were a week or two ago. There is little reason now to hope that the elections will indicate so thorough a change of public sentiment as to arrest the impeachment project. We know, now, that the movement is to be commenced immediately upon the meeting of Congress, and that every preparation has been made for it, even to the draft of the articles, and also the draft of a joint resolution providing for the President's suspension from official power.

The resolution will be general in its terms, providing that every officer of the Government liable to impeachment, may, upon the presentment of articles of impeachment, ordered by the Senate, be arrested and imprisoned or superseded in the performance of his official functions, until he shall be acquitted by the judgment of the Senate. This joint resolution will pass the first week of the session, if not the first day, and upon its return with the President's objections, both Houses will pass it by a majority of two-thirds. Thus the fact of suspension will be brought about under color and pretext of time.

It will be difficult for the President to resist the inforcement of the law, when applied to his own suspension and arrest. But he has certainly declared to several public men, within the last few days, that he would resist it. He is well aware of the form which impeachment will take. The main charge will be, that he has attempted to frustrate the will of Congress in relation to laws for reconstruction. The ground for impeachment will be political altogether. A difference of opinion with Congress is assumed as a "high crime and misdemeanor."

Gen. Sherman at the Capitol—The War Office.

From the Boston Advertiser.

WASHINGTON, Monday, Oct. 7, 1867.

Gen. SHERMAN has divided his time to-day between the White House and the War Office, spending three hours at the latter place with Gen. GRANT. He said at noon that he did not know what he was called here for. The fact that it was thought necessary to detail Gen. AUGUR to his place on the Indian Commission is proof enough that the President directed him to be some time absent. The conversation between the President and himself, yesterday and this morning, was of a very general character. The office of Secretary of War has not been formally tendered to him, but Mr. JOHNSON has consulted him and asked his views on many subjects, with the evident intention of learning what sort of a cabinet member he would make.

Gen. SHERMAN says he don't want to live in Washington a week, and would earnestly beg to be excused from entering upon any duty that would keep him here. He is, moreover, entirely content with his present military position and wholly disinclined to the undertaking of executive service like that of the War Office. He also says that he has found no difficulty in serving under Gen. GRANT, and has no desire to be put into other relations with him. Everybody knows that the most cordial sympathy existed between these two officers during the latter part of the war, and it is perhaps scarcely necessary to say that there has been no change in this respect since the return of peace.

The President does not find Gen. GRANT any more pliable than Mr. STANTON, but he hardly dares to supplant him with such a man as Gen. STEEDMAN, though so far as Congress and the country are concerned, he thinks he could depose him in favor of Gen. SHERMAN. Gen. GRANT considers himself in the War Office by order of the President, and liable to be removed by another order from the same source. It is very doubtful, in view of all that has occurred to-day, if the President makes a definite tender of the position to Gen. SHERMAN, and it is almost certain that he would not accept the office if the tender were made. It may safely be said that he will not do so unless Gen. GRANT thus advises. The situation, therefore, may be stated in a few words, viz.: If it becomes certain that Gen. GRANT must go out, Gen. SHERMAN will take the place if it is offered to him. He will, however, before doing so, strongly advise the President not to make any change. That Mr. JOHNSON called him here with the view of putting him at the head of the War Department, if he could use him, is as true as the fact already developed that he cannot use him.

MEXICO.

Internal Revenue Decree in Mexico—The Body of Maximilian—Corona Promises to Support Juarez—Political Prisoners on Parole—Porfirio Diaz Nominated for President.

From the New-Orleans Picayune, Oct. 4.

We have received La Concordia, of Vera Cruz, of the 26th, and El Monitor Republicano, of 20th September.

The latter is chiefly occupied with the address, delivered Sept. 16, the Independence Day of Mexico, by Gen. VICENTE RIVA PALACIO, before the Junta Patriotica of the capital. It contains a decree of Mr. JUAREZ, changing the mode of trial in pending criminal cases, so as to enable the Courts to come to speedy conclusions. It also contains further sections of one previously commenced, establishing a system of internal revenue.

El Monitor says that the Sra. DA CONCEPCION LOMBARDO DE MIRAMON has been created a Princess of the Empire of Austria.

The Diario Official says: The statements made in some of the papers of this city referring to the embalming of the body, to the effect that it had somewhat decomposed, that a part of the nose is missing and that it has been necessary to complete it with wax, and that there had been some change in the eyes, are not correct. We learn from physicians, who have seen the corpse, that it is not true that it has suffered any decomposition, nor that any part of the nose is missing. As to the eyes, they have been fixed as is usual in embalmed bodies. D. VICENTE LICEA claims to be the only person who took part in embalming the body.

D. ALEJANDO VILLASENOR, a political prisoner, had died in the Essenaanza. SOMERO, ex-Minister of MAXIMILIAN, had paid his fine of $5,000 and been released. GONZALES CASIO, one of the notables, had died.

It is said that Gen. CORONA has written to the Government, promising to support JUAREZ for the Presidency, and assuring him of the support of Jalisco. They make "promises of pie-crust" in Mexico.

The Concordia remarks upon the strange delay in deciding upon the case of SANTA ANNA.

The Orquesta says that on the 16th of September, in the midst of the rejoicing, people mingled with quite a number of the prisoners in the Essenaanza, among them an ex-Minister, who were out on parole. That this was allowed, and they not insulted, is claimed to be very honorable to the Mexican people. On the contrary, a great many houses were closed on that day.

El Siglo says the news of the death of Gen. JUAN ALVAREZ is authentic. Letters of mourning have been received confirming it.

The Restauracion, of Morelia, mentions the consecration of the Bishop D. IGNACIO ARCIGA, "who, during the so-called Empire, could not get his bulls approved."

An important banquet has been given in Puebla to Gen. DIAZ, in which, after censures of the violation by JUAREZ of the Constitution of 1857, and of his propositions in the convocatoria, Gen. DIAZ was nominated for President. In his speech in reply he neither accepted nor rejected the nomination, but spoke highly of JUAREZ, and declared his own devotion to the Constitution, to which he had sworn an oath he had always kept.

Preparations for the Trial of Jefferson Davis.

RICHMOND, Va., Tuesday, Oct. 8.

In view of the trial of JEFFERSON DAVIS, double the usual number of petit jurors have been ordered to be summoned for the Fall Term of the Court. Hon. JAS. LYONS was to-day furnished with a copy of the indictment against the accused. Gen. WELLES, of Alexandria, it is understood, is engaged on the side of the prosecution. The Prosecuting Attorney, CHANDLER, leaves to-night for New-York, to consult with Mr. EVARTS, who assists him.

The Storm on the Coast—Marine Disasters.

FORTRESS MONROE, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

Accounts from the northward and southward of Cape Henry unite in characterizing the late storm on the coast as very severe. Hampton Roads is full of vessels forced to put in for shelter.

The schooner E. H. De Hart, from Windward Island for New-York, encountered, on the 29th ult., on the northern edge of the Gulf Stream, a heavy gale, lasting three days. She saw fifteen vessels that had lost spars and sails.

The schooner, Mariba, Capt. NICHOLS, from New-York for Baltimore, encountered a heavy gale, and lost her anchors and chains. The schooner Curtis, Capt. TILTON, from Wilmington for New-York, experienced a gale off Hatteras. The steamer Niagara, from New-York, saw on Sunday a sunken steamer off Cedar Island, between Chincoteague and Hog Island. The steamer Saratoga has sailed for New-York.

GEN. SHERIDAN.

His Visit to Lowell and Enthusiastic Reception by the Citizens—Procession of Firemen, Militia and Veterans.

BOSTON, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

Gen. SHERIDAN's visit to Lowell this afternoon was made the occasion of a large and enthusiastic demonstration. The General left Boston at 1 o'clock in a special train, which arrived at the Middlesex-street Depot at 2 o'clock. He was there met by Mayor RICHARDSON and members of the City Government, and a large procession, under the marshalship of Gen. WILLIAM O. FISKE. The column comprised four companies of the Sixth Regiment, eight fire companies, the Lowell Irish Benevolent Society, the Young Men's Catholic Library Association, and several hundred veteran soldiers, under the command of Col. A. B. FROW. The streets through which the procession passed were crowded with people, and the buildings all along the route were very elaborately decorated with bunting and inscriptions of welcome. A stand was erected in Monument-square, and upon this the speaking took place. Mayor RICHARDSON welcomed the General in the following words:

GEN. SHERIDAN: The City Council and people of Lowell unite in welcoming you to their city, and they rejoice in the opportunity to express their admiration of your conduct as a soldier and a statesman. This spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm tells of their admiration of the distinguished service you have rendered the country, no less in the recent course you have taken in the Department of Louisiana than, three years ago the present month, when you rode from Winchester to save the day.

In behalf of the people of Lowell I express the hope that you may live and long enjoy health. We believe that your future career will be as brilliant as your past has been glorious.

Gen. SHERIDAN is before you, and needs no introduction to the loyal people of the country.

Gen. SHERIDAN replied as follows:

I think you all know I never make speeches. I regret that I have not words to express my gratitude for the marks of your approbation of my acts in the war. I can only say that I feel highly honored by this reception in Lowell. I am glad to see that those who stood up for the country are still true to their principles, and I hope they will ever remain so. I am glad to see that the same spirit animates the people.

Gen. BUTLER was called upon by the assemblage, and made the following remarks:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: This assemblage, in honor of the soldier hero of Winchester, the Shenandoah, Five Forks, and the still more difficult command of the Department of the Louisiana, speaks for itself. He has said he does not make speeches. His acts speak for him. We shall always remember the acts of the soldier who has shown statesmanship fit to rule the country he has saved.

Hon. HENRY WILSON, who was also on the platform, was now called upon by the crowd and responded in the following terms:

FELLOW-CITIZENS OF MIDDLESEX COUNTY: I am glad to see you here to-day to welcome one of the foremost, if not the foremost Generals of the rebellion. You have paid that respect and admiration which is felt by the loyal men of the whole North. It was his fortune to take part in the field and to win distinguished honors; and it was reserved for him at a later day in New-Orleans, where another General had shown at an earlier date a capacity to govern traitors, to show that he was no less a statesman than a soldier. He fully met the requirements of the hour. He has endeared himself to the liberty-loving citizens of the country. Never, until they forget his ride to Winchester, his gallantry at Five Forks, and his more recent distinguished services, will they cease to love SHERIDAN for his fidelity to the country. There is no spot in the Union where his reputation is dearer than in old Middlesex County, where the first battles of the Revolution were fought. It remains to show how you will stand by him and by the principles he has upheld.

At the conclusion of the speaking, the members of the City Government and others were personally introduced to the General. Among those upon the platform were between thirty and forty editors of the New-England Press, who were upon an excursion to the Middlesex Mechanics' Fair.

The General was invited to attend a dinner given to these gentlemen by the managers of the Fair, but was compelled to decline for want of time.

After making a hurried inspection of the Fair in company of Mayor RICHARDSON, Hon. HIRAM HOSFORD, Gen. BUTLER and others, he was escorted back to the depot and took a special train for Boston.

During the march of the procession from the depot to Monument-square the bells of the city were rung and chimed, and St. Anne's Church executed "Yankee Doodle." All the factories were closed and business was generally suspended.

This evening a banquet was given in honor of Gen. SHERIDAN by the Union Club at their club-house, in Park-street. The entertainment was of a very elegant character, but no speeches were made of consequence.

The General leaves for the West early to-morrow morning.

Republican Convention in Virginia—Colored Odd Fellows—Whisky Seizure.

FORTRESS MONROE, Va., Saturday, Oct. 5.

At a Radical Republican Convention held in Providence Church, Norfolk County, on the 1st inst., there were present full delegations from each magisterial district, and also a full delegation from the city of Portsmouth. Delegates were chosen to represent the county in the Virginia State Convention, to be held in Richmond, as follows: LUTHER LEE, (white,) HENRY COPELAND and GEO. TEAMAH, (colored.) These nominations did not give entire satisfaction, and some of the members of the Convention have issued a call for another Convention, to meet in Portsmouth to-day to make other nominations.

The Convention of the United Order of Odd Fellows (colored) has just closed its session in Norfolk, after harmonious and interesting proceedings. Some of the most prominent members of the Order participated in the deliberations. On yesterday the Order celebrated its twenty-second anniversary by a street parade and a grand supper.

Information has been received at Norfolk that the outer buoys at Hatteras Inlet, N. C., have drifted about a mile to the southward of their proper position, and the Lighthouse Board has given notice that they will be returned to their places as soon as practicable.

A large seizure of whisky and tobacco was made at the Seaboard and Roanoke Railroad depot, Portsmouth, yesterday, by the revenue officer, for an alleged fraudulent attempt to escape the Internal Revenue tax.

Organization of the Tennessee Legislature.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Tuesday, Oct. 8.

The House of Representatives completed its organization to-day. JAMES SUMNER (colored) was elected Assistant Doorkeeper over several white competitors. The Governor's message has not yet been delivered. An unauthorized and premature synopsis of it has been telegraphed. It is reported to-night that the Governor will be inaugurated to-morrow. The inaugural address is already in the hands of the Public Printer.

The Court of Appeals.

ALBANY, Tuesday, Oct. 8.

The following is the day calendar of the Court of Appeals for Oct. 9: Nos. 279, 280, 281, 282, 12, 14, 3.

There will be no further day calendar this term. No. 278 is still on argument.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Mozart Judiciary Convention.

This Convention met last evening. Mr. FERNANDO WOOD called the Convention to order, and Mr. GEO. SHEA was elected Chairman.

Mr. WOOD said that they had met to nominate candidates for the several judicial offices in this county, the principal of which was that of Judge of the Supreme Court. The candidate they should select for this high office ought to possess both character and ability. His political principles must also be looked to. The Judges were often called upon to decide on political questions, and he was sorry to say the majority of them decided according to their political bias. It was therefore absolutely necessary to look to their candidate's political principles. He would nominate, as a fit man for the office of Judge of the Supreme Court, ALBERT CARDOZO, and he would move that the nomination be confirmed by acclamation.

The nomination was so confirmed, and on motion of Mr. WOOD a committee of one delegate from each ward was appointed to select fit and proper candidates for the other judicial offices, and to report their names to the Convention at its next meeting on Tuesday next. The Convention then adjourned.

Kings County Republican General Committee.

The General Committee met at No. 9 Court-street, Brooklyn, last evening, E. L. SANDERSON, Esq., the President, in the chair. After the usual preliminary proceedings, the primaries were ordered for Thursday, the 17th of October. The City Convention was ordered for Friday, the 18th inst. The County Convention for Saturday, the 19th inst. The Senatorial Conventions are called for Monday, the 21st inst; the Assembly Conventions for Wednesday, the 23d inst. The Assembly Conventions are to meet on the same date. The Committee appointed two delegates from each Assembly District to attend the Judiciary Convention. The names of the delegates to the Judiciary Convention are as follows: First District, E. A. Studwell and James Hanley; Second District, J. C. Perry and George O. Parsons; Third District, W. H. Bergen and Wm. Coit; Fourth District, R. E. Underhill and John L. Spader; Fifth District, Stephen Crowell and George G. Reynolds; Sixth District, James Bole and John Simmons; Seventh District, J. S. Barr and George W. Barchard; Eighth District, Chauncey Perry and R. C. Scott; Ninth District, James T. Benedict and D. C. Winslow.

After this business, the Committee adjourned till Tuesday evening next.

Workingmen's Meeting.

A meeting of the workingmen of Jersey City was held at St. Peter's Hall, on Monday night, for the purpose of taking action to protect the rights of labor, and secure the repeal of what is termed the Conspiracy Law. JOHN T. MELLOR was appointed Chairman. Speeches were made by JAMES O'DONNELL, of New-York; ANTHONY HIGGINS, Jr., of Jersey City; Mr. DUNN, of New-York, and others.

Resolutions were adopted demanding a modification of the Conspiracy Act, so as to secure the right of association for protection against powerful combinations of monopoly and capital; declaring that the few who have hitherto controlled politics look upon the laborer's interests as secondary to that of clique and party; that they see no remedy left but the securing of just legislation through the medium of honest and efficient representatives, chosen from the working classes; that labor must be represented by the laborer, and capital by the capitalist.

The following nominations for Assembly were then made:

First District—Anthony Higgins, Jr.
Second District—John T. Mellor.
Third District—Ira Falkenburg.

MEETING OF SOLDIERS AND SAILORS.—In accordance with a call issued a few days ago by the officers of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Union League, a meeting was to have been held by the League last evening at Pythagoras Hall, in Canal-street, near the Bowery, for the purpose of expressing indignation at the want of courtesy and hospitality on the part of the City officials in not tendering a suitable reception to Major-Gen. SHERIDAN on the occasion of his recent visit to this City. There were few persons present, however, and after consultation, Capt. C. W. NELSON announced that in consequence of the prior engagements of the principal speakers advertised to attend the meeting—Gen. SIGEL, Col. HAWKINS, Gen. TIEMANN and others—it was considered best to adjourn until Tuesday evening next at the same time and place.

The Battle of the Safes.

PARIS EXPOSITION, Sept. 26, 1867.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In your weekly of the 14th I find the following:

LONDON, Tuesday, Sept. 10.

Mr. SILAS C. HERRING, of New-York, writes to the London Times from Paris that the Commission to which was referred the question between the English and American manufacturers as to the comparative merits of their respective burglar and fire-proof safes, has dissolved without making any decision.

In reply to this I would state that the Committee above referred to has not yet dissolved, even though the English members tried so very hard to bring about that result by withdrawing from it themselves, after all the facts of the trials had been ascertained. It is, of course, well known that the two English members reported in favor of Mr. CHATWOOD's safe, while the report of the two American members favored the Herring Safe. Mr. DOULIOT, the French engineer, had his report written, and it was being read by the Secretary, when they thought best to leave. Mr. HERRING having made a legal demand of Mr. DOULIOT for his report, that gentleman has this day given it. I will make two short extracts:

"1. If the intrinsic qualities of the different materials used are to be considered as equal in the two Safes, Mr. HERRING having, by his happy combinations, been able to render them more effective, and even to impart the desired malleability to cast iron, from this point of view it is just to say that Mr. HERRING's Safe is the best, as regards the quality of material used.

2. The bare aspect of the Chatwood safe tends to dissuade burglars from an attack on it, by reason of the extreme perfection of its adjustment, and the simplicity of its form, but if they are secure and bold enough to make the attempt, the excessive method of its construction permits them to anticipate success. In proportion as they advance, the difficulties of the struggle diminish, their moral forces are augmented, and sustain their physical forces up to the final result which they covet. The Herring safe, which at first sight appears more susceptible of a beginning, presenting, as it does, to the close of the contest, difficulties always as great, and yet always different, does not allow a speedy success to be anticipated, it tends then at the same time to exhaust both the physical and moral energy of the attacking party, and thus furnishes a greater guarantee against ultimate effraction and robbery. It is due, then, to say furthermore, that

The Herring Safe is the best, as regards the capacity of resisting boring instruments, gunpowder, steel wedges, levers, steel screws, and all other burglars' tools."

This report being strongly in favor of the Herring Safe, it is, of course, easy to anticipate the result.

Yours truly, THOS. R. PICKERING,
United States Section Exposition.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

In this climate a vast number of persons are more or less affected with disorders of the liver, arising from inflammation or obstruction of that organ. The common symptoms of liver complaint are a dull pain or aching in the right side, particularly on pressure—some difficulty of breathing—yellow furred tongue, loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, disorder of the stomach and bowels, sick headache, costiveness at some times and diarrhœa at others, slight fevers toward evening, night sweats, &c. Some of the appearances of liver complaint are so much like those of pulmonary consumption that one of these disorders is often mistaken for the other. It is a common mistake among physicians to suppose that liver complaint can be cured only by calomel; but this remedy is generally worse than the disease—for they who once submit to a "course of mercury" may assure themselves that they will never enjoy perfect health afterward. Dr. J. H. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, a purely vegetable compound, answer every purpose for which calomel is prescribed, and they cannot possibly do any injury. Their action on the liver is so wonderful that some "regular physicians" who have witnessed the cures performed by them erroneously reported that they must contain calomel. To contradict this slander, Dr. Schenck made oath before an Alderman in Philadelphia that the Mandrake Pills contain no mineral substance whatever, and a copy of this affidavit is published in Dr. Schenck's pamphlet. Dr. Schenck pledges himself that these Mandrake Pills will cure any case of liver complaint, and abundant evidence of the fact is exhibited at his offices in Philadelphia, New-York, Boston, Baltimore and Washington, where the certificates of his patients, many of them persons of the highest respectability, are kept on file.

Dr. SCHENCK is professionally at NO. 32 BOND-ST., NEW-YORK, every Tuesday, and at No. 35 Hanover-st., Boston, every Wednesday.

He is also professionally at his principal office, No. 15 North 6th-st., corner of Commerce, Philadelphia, every Saturday, where all letters for advice must be addressed. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer, the price is $5. Office hours at each city from 9 A. M. to 3 P. M.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Sea-Weed Tonic $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box. A full supply of Dr. Schenck's medicines for sale at all times at his rooms.

BUNFORD LIGHTHILL, at his office, No. 166 5th-av., (one block south of the Fifth-av. Hotel.) Office hours from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. Evenings and Sundays by special appointment only.

Attention is invited to the following testimonials, selected from the many in Dr. Lighthill's possession, from distinguished parties who have been under his professional care.

FROM REV. S. J. CORNEILLE,
Rector of All Saints' Church, New-York.
No. 29 GOUVERNEUR-ST., New-York.

Dr. Lighthill:

DEAR SIR: It is with great pleasure I tender you this acknowledgment of my appreciation of the benefit that I have derived from your treatment. I present it that others who may be suffering from like causes as myself, may, through the publication of my experience, learn that under your care relief can be obtained.

I have been afflicted with catarrh for many years, which at one time threatened the loss of my voice, and undermined my general health to such an extent as to necessitate a suspension of my pastoral duties. Two months of your medical treatment, however, afforded me such invaluable relief that I was enabled to resume my duties, and to perform them now without the slightest inconvenience.

Having the highest appreciation of your medical skill, and with many thanks for uniform kindness and courtesy, I am, dear Sir,

Yours, very gratefully,
S. J. CORNEILLE,
Rector of All Saints' Church.

Having experienced in my own case the beneficial effects of the skill and experience of Dr. LIGHTHILL in the treatment of Catarrh, and knowing of his success in many other cases treated by him, I take pleasure in recommending him to my friends and the public.

MUSICAL.

THE WEBER PIANO-FORTE
is called the best instrument made by all the leading musicians of this City and elsewhere. It is pronounced by the National Piano-forte Association, after a trial in their rooms with the first manufactures of this country, eminently the best Piano in America, and used by the Conservatory of Music and other high music schools altogether, because of their immense power, equality, sweetness and brilliancy of tone, elastic touch and great durability. Warerooms No. 429 Broome-st., near Broadway.

MASON AND HAMLIN, MANUFACTURERS OF CABINET ORGANS, No. 596 Broadway, New-York, have been awarded a FIRST PRIZE MEDAL at the PARIS EXPOSITION. Fifty styles at $75 to $1,000 each. Second hand instruments of various makers at low prices. ORGANS TO RENT.

NEW PATENT PIANOS.
RAVEN & BACON, Manufacturers of Piano-fortes with Patent Combination Sounding-Boards.

This invention, introduced exclusively into our Pianos, is of the greatest advantage to the tone of the instrument, as it affects the Sounding-Board—the very soul of the Piano—and produces thereby a pure liquid tone, greatly superior in quality and power to that of the ordinary Piano. The Sounding-Board, released from its connection with the piano-case and resting upon under sounding-boards, is relieved from the rigidity caused by such connection, and its vibratory quality greatly increased. All lovers of this eminently household instrument, as well as parties proposing to purchase new Pianos, are invited to call and examine our assortment. Warerooms, 644 and 646 Broadway, N. Y.

A WELL-MERITED SUCCESS.
The celebrated BRASS INSTRUMENTS manufactured by the SCHREIBER CORNET COMPANY have obtained the FIRST MEDAL
at the International Exhibition in Paris, for their beautiful, clear and sympathetic sound and novelty of construction, combining the greatest advantages for the performer with excellence of material and great durability.

BANQUET TO MR. A. A. LOW.

Addresses of Mr. Low, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher and Others.

Mr. A. A. Low was the guest of the members of the Chamber of Commerce last evening at a banquet in the Fifth-avenue Hotel. The tables were handsomely ornamented. The chair was occupied by Mr. W. E. Dodge, supported on the right by the guest of the evening. There were seated near the Chairman Hon. Townsend Harris, Major-Gen. Gilmore, Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, Rev. Frank Vinton, William Cullen Bryant, Mr. Peter Cooper, Bishop Clarkson, Rear-Admiral Stringham, Rev. A. W. Littlejohn, Hon. Horace Greeley and Ex-Mayor Opdyke. There were present about eighty gentlemen. A number of letters were read from others invited, but who were unable to attend. Dinner, which was announced for 8 o'clock, was not served until half-past 9, and speaking began at about 11 o'clock. The first toast, "The Guest of the Evening," was warmly received, and was responded to by Mr. A. A. Low.

Mr. Low after expressing his delight at finding himself once more surrounded by so many friends from whom he had long been separated, proceeded to relate in a most interesting manner the story of his trip to San Francisco, and to set forth the great future of California, aided in her development by emigration from China. After reciting some details of his stay in San Francisco he carried his hearers with him over 5,250 miles of ocean, in the Colorado, to Yokohama, and, after remaining three weeks in Japan, to Shanghae and Hong-Kong. After a month spent in the south of China he embarked, March 27, with his family for Suez. Our first stopping-place, he continued, was Saigon, in Cochin China about fifty miles from the mouth of the Douai. The country through which the river flows is generally flat, and covered with a rich tropical growth to the water's edge. Sirgon is a naval and military station commanding the various provinces over which the French have recently acquired control. A million of peculs of rice are annually sent from this port to China, and the quantity will probably be much larger this year. This digression cost us two days, and the voyage thence to Singapore took two more. There we remained twenty-four hours, receiving a large number of passengers from the Straits, from Siam and from the Island of Java.

The distance from Singapore to Galen, in Ceylon, is about the same as that from Hong Kong to Singapore—1,500 miles—and it was made in just five days, over a perfectly smooth sea. Here the connecting steamer from Calcutta arrived the morning after we anchored, completely filling all available space in our ship, increasing our passenger list to two hundred, of whom about forty were children. At this point the detention was thirty-six hours; and here we received on landing letters from home, and a telegram bearing date the 1st of April! Our arrival was announced in return, and the dispatch reached New-York on the 18th of the same month. The route through which the wires are passed is a circuitous one, and there is much delay in the transmission of messages. A run of five days took them to Suez, and half way up the Red Sea they obtained relief for the first time from the great heat experienced throughout the tropical region traversed. In the Summer and early Autumn it becomes extremely offensive. Horeb and Sinai were passed in fine view. To Cairo and Alexandria, and thence to Sicily they proceeded, and so across Europe and back to the United States. Our visit to Japan, said Mr. Low, was ill-timed. The Winter was far advanced, and the rainy season had set in. Earlier or later and the country would have presented a more inviting appearance. Two weeks before our arrival Yokohama had been devastated by a great conflagration, which swept away two-thirds of the native settlement, and one-third of the foreign. The loss was stated at several millions of dollars. Nevertheless the work of reconstruction was proceeding vigorously in both sections. Fires are of frequent occurrence, owing to the combustible character of the Japanese buildings. During our stay the residence of the British Minister was burnt to the ground in ten or fifteen minutes, although situated within two hundred feet of the waters of the bay. Many of the houses are built without chimneys, and ignite from the stove-pipes carried up through the roof. Experience is proving that there is a greater risk than that of earthquakes, and will dictate a change in the method of construction. The Japanese Government has made liberal concessions of land to foreigners, which is held under perpetual lease and subject to a moderate ground rent. At the period of our arrival, the foreign Ministers were contemplating a visit to Osaca, by invitation of the Tycoon, to arrange for the opening of new ports. The death of the Mikado caused a delay; but the meeting, as you are aware, has since taken place with satisfactory results. There appeared to be a good deal of indifference, if not positive objection to this fulfillment of the treaty obligation on the part of the merchants of Yokohama, because of the amount of money invested in houses, "go-downs," and other buildings at that place. If the trade was to be divided between two ports, without being materially increased, two establishments would be necessary instead of one, and without a corresponding benefit.

The Bay of Yeddo affords excellent anchorage, and is easily accessible, while Hiogo, on the inland sea—the port of Osaca—is difficult of approach, on account of strong currents, whether much less exposed, I am unable to say. The necessity of sustaining numerous branches at different places on the coast of China, by houses originally established at Canton, has contributed, directly and incidentally, to the commercial disasters which have occurred during late years, and similar consequences are naturally apprehended in Japan if the trade is divided. Transportation by coasting vessels between the two ports is very cheap. The New-Year holidays were at hand when we arrived, and much of the time during our stay was given up to native festivities. A partial failure of the rice crop and of the sugar cane was causing a somewhat extensive demand for both staples, increasing traffic with China, and producing an important change in the value of the native currency. The balance of trade is against Japan, and "boos," the coin in which transactions with the merchants of the interior are carried on, had much depreciated. Consequently, foreign officials who, by courtesy or by treaty, had enjoyed the privilege of exchanging Mexican dollars at the mint at the rate of 311 "boos" for 100 dollars, found their business diminished when, in the open market, 100 dollars would bring $20 and 330, instead of 220 and 250 "boos," as before. If generally known that this source of profit is cut off, there may be fewer applications for appointments to Japan than now. It is not to be understood, however, that the change referred to was effected solely by the extraordinary demand for rice and sugar, or by this and the added cost of other imports. The Daimios have been indulging themselves for years in the purchase of steamers, and some $3,000,000 were in course of payment by the Government in adjustments of recent disputes with Foreign Powers. There were other reasons. The Press of Yokohama was full of complaint that extensive contracts had been entered into by the Taicoon with one of the Foreign Ministers for saddles and clothing for the native troops—to the prejudice of the merchant—who thus lost a market for his goods. And it may not be amiss to say that much fault was found with the manner in which an order sent to this country, several years ago, for new ships of war was executed, there being none to defend our good name whether justly or unjustly assailed. It was said the Japanese Commission, then on the point of leaving for the United States, would investigate the facts.

Mr. Low dwelt upon the prospects of our commerce with China and Japan, and, in conclusion, enlarged upon the importance of taking speedy measures for advancing our interests on the ocean. If, he said, we are to retain our skilled mechanics and raise up sailors for the emergencies of war, and not to abandon the ocean to other nations, one of three things seems to be necessary, viz.:

1. The taxes on material which enters into the construction of vessels intended for the foreign trade must be returned in some way so as to reduce the cost; or,

2. The law must be so changed as to permit of vessels purchased abroad, either on payment of duty or without duty, being put under the American flag; or,

3. Such liberal subsidies must be allowed as will encourage the building of steamers of wood or of iron as may seem best, whatever the disadvantages under which the war has placed us.

It is cheering to think what a magnificent line of vessels—unsurpassed, if equalled in all the world—the action of Congress has called into being on the Pacific Ocean, and how insignificent the subsidy. I cannot doubt it were wiser and better to devote some of the millions that are annually paid for the maintenance of our navy in ways that would foster commerce, rather than give so much for protection where there is so little to preserve and so little to defend.

Mr. Low, at the conclusion of his address, was warmly applauded. He was followed by Ex-Mayor Opdyke, who spoke in glowing eulogium of his fellow member of the Chamber of Commerce. Rev. Henry Ward Beecher followed in the same strain, and said that it was the destiny of America to be a great commercial nation, and hoped that her wealth and enterprise would always be represented in foreign lands by such men as Mr. Low.

Speeches were then delivered by Hon. G. G. Chittenden, Peter Cooper and others, the festivities being continued until after midnight.

The Noble Case Concluded.

Justice Hogan yesterday closed the examination in the case of Daniel Noble, accused of complicity in the Royal Life Insurance Company robbery, on the 10th of December, 1866, when over $250,000 worth of United States bonds and other securities were carried off in open daylight by two men who had conversed with the agent of the Company. It will be remembered that James Griffin and Frank Knapp, the confessed and actual thieves in this case, escaped to Canada after the robbery, and were arrested in Montreal on that charge, but were subsequently released, in consequence of the non-existence of any treaty between Great Britain and the United States for the surrender of persons accused of grand larceny. The Company then commenced a civil action against Knapp and Griffin for the recovery of the stolen bonds, and succeeded in recovering $75,000 worth by negotiation. A man named Robert Stirling was found in possession of some other bonds. He was arrested and the bonds were secured. Stirling was never brought to trial. A Dr. Shine was also arrested a few months ago on a charge of having guilty possession of one of the stolen bonds, which he stated he received from Jack Tierney, the man who carried on the negotiation between the Insurance Company and Griffin and Knapp. He gave bail for trial, and the case so stands undecided, the bond going over to the Company. The charge against Daniel Noble is that he was criminally and intimately concerned in the actual robbery, and the prosecution relied mainly on the evidence given by Griffin's wife, (which was subsequently thrown out,) and that of a Mr. Gilchrist, to sustain this charge. The case was closed yesterday, the counsel on either side summing up. Mr. Graham, on the part of the defence, moved for a dismissal of the complaint, on the ground that the evidence was insufficient, and in his argument claimed that the prosecution had stultified itself in having frequently accused other persons besides Noble, Knapp and Griffin of being the thieves who committed the robbery, and also claimed that no connection had been proven between Noble and the reputed thieves. Mr. Larocque, on the part of the prosecution, replied to the theory of the defence, and combatted the motion to dismiss the complaint on the ground that the evidence furnished by him had been full and sufficient to prove probable cause, and claimed that the case must go before the Grand Jury. Counsel said that the prosecution had proved by Mr. Hart, of Buffalo, that Noble had attempted to bribe officer Barker when arrested by him in August. They had proved that Knapp and Griffin had lived at Noble's house at the time of the robbery, and that Noble had aided in their escape. He also spoke of the style of living in which the accused was indulging at the time of his arrest, and drew the deduction that he had become suddenly and unaccountably rich, and demanded that the prisoner be committed for trial.

The magistrate took the papers and reserved his decision for a few days.

VITAL STATISTICS.

Decrease of Deaths from Zymotic Diseases—General Good Health in the Northern States—The Yellow Fever at the South.

Dr. Harris, Registrar of Vital Statistics, yesterday sent his weekly report to the Board of Health. It is as follows:

There were 469 deaths in New-York last week and 204 in Brooklyn; 23 of the latter occurred in streets, and public charities beyond the City limits, and of the former there were 58 inmates of State and county asylums on the Islands.

The proportion of zymotic causes of death has rapidly declined to 24.02 per cent. of the total mortality in Brooklyn, and to 29.42 per cent. in New-York. The diarrhœal disorders caused a little more than half of the deaths in this class. The death-rate of children continues to diminish. In New-York the deaths of infants under one year old constituted 34.54 per cent. of the mortality at all ages, and those under five years 55.86 per cent., while in Brooklyn the proportions for the same periods of childhood were 32.84 and 53.92 per cent., respectively. No form of fatal epidemics is prevailing in either city. The widespread occurrence of intermittent malarial fever in the undrained sections of both cities, as well as in the adjacent rural districts, though not productive of directly fatal effects, nevertheless points significantly to the necessity of systematic and thorough drainage in such localities. The prevalence of typhoid fever and fatal diseases of the lungs in some of these most notably malarial spots in the two cities is attracting the attention of physicians.

An unusually low death-rate is reported in all the cities of the Northern States. Even in St. Louis, though menaced by cholera all Summer, unusual health prevails; and in Chicago there were but 87 deaths the last week in September, against 148 in the corresponding week last year. In both of those cities there has arisen a spirit of sanitary improvement and good government that promises to make them two of the most salubrious and prosperous great towns upon the continent. To-day's reports give hope that the great pestilence in New-Orleans reached its acme last week. The Sextons reported 735 interments in that city, while at Carrolton and Greeneville, a few miles up the river, and at the military barracks, just below the city, the fever did its worst. Reports certify that the humane and unceasing labors of the Howard Association and the Sisters of Charity, and the heroic labors of medical men—none of whom have forsaken the sick—have prevented the panic and mitigated, in untold degree, the woe that must otherwise have prevailed. Throughout the South the Press and many public spirited citizens are already seriously asking in what manner hygiene shall be invoked to prevent such terrible ravages of this destroyer.

E. HARRIS.

Board of Excise.

At the meeting of the Board of Excise yesterday the Committee on Permits reported favorably upon sixty applications for license, which were allowed.

The Commissioners then proceeded to the trial of a calendar of twenty-four cases of alleged violation of the Excise Law. The following cases were indefinitely postponed, without explanation, viz.: School Commissioner, Owen Healy, of No. 23 Cherry-street; Adolph Ziegler, No. 785 Third-avenue; Sibbens & Overton, corner Eighth-avenue and One Hundred and Thirtieth-street. Dismissed—Christian Schmitt, No. 23 Avenue C; John Schweden, No. 619 East Twelfth-street.

In the following instances only, the licenses were revoked, viz.: Louis Gasteyer, No. 462 Sixth-avenue; Frederick Raskee, No. 33 Attorney-street; Thomas Kelly, No. 209 Avenue B; Christian Kruse, Broadway, between Eighty-third and Eighty-fourth streets; Charles Walters, No. 63 Ridge-street; Augustus Clapp, No. 730 Tenth-avenue; Jacob Zeigler, No. 176 Stanton-street.

Francis Lauzier, of New-Lots, L. I., was charged with exposing his bar on Sunday, Sept. 22. It appeared in the evidence that the accused had been before a Criminal Court, under trial for the same offence, and that the jury acquitted him. Counsel for the defendant thereupon insisted before the Board of Excise, that inasmuch as the rule holds good that a conviction of this offence in a Criminal Court, of itself, is sufficient to revoke the offender's license, it is but fair that where an acquittal is the result of a criminal trial, that result should be final, and this Board has no right to try the case for the second time.

Mr. Bliss, counsel for the Board, replied that if such a rule was admitted to be correct, it would be impossible to punish offenders in certain portions of the Metropolitan District, where the feelings and sympathies of juries are with the liquor dealers. In such instances acquittals by juries would follow, and this Board would be bound by verdicts inconsistent with the plainest evidence.

Commissioner Bosworth being asked for his opinion in the matter, said he thought that the decision of a Criminal Court in such cases, settle questions of fact, and should govern the Board in its disposition of the charges.

On motion, the further trial of this case was postponed for two weeks, and Counsel for the Board was instructed to report at the next meeting his opinion of the law upon this point.

The Board then adjourned until Tuesday next, at 1 o'clock.

Opening of the Evening Schools.

The evening schools throughout the City were opened Monday evening with appropriate exercises, the audiences that gathered at all of them being numerous, and the attendance of pupils unusually large. Under the new regulation, the ordinary evening schools require that applicants for membership shall be twelve years of age, and females ten and upward, in order to gain admission to the privileges of scholarship. The old law, which excludes all who have an opportunity of attending day schools, is still enforced. The ensuing session will continue for eighteen weeks, and it is probable that many will avail themselves of this means of gaining a fair education.

The High School also was opened last evening. It is held in the building occupied by Grammar School No. 35, in West Thirteenth-street, near Sixth-avenue, and will remain open for twenty-four weeks. During the past fortnight 801 pupils have been entered on its roll, and last evening more than 1,000 were present. The interest felt by prominent citizens in this enterprise was shown in the presence of a large number of them last evening. Among others there were Mayor Hoffman, the venerable James W. Gerard, Rev. Drs. Osgood and Burchard, Prof. Doremus, Sheriff Kelly, Mr. Thos. C. Acton, President of the Board of Police Commissioners; School Inspector James Kelly, and Messrs. Warren, Miller, Boese, Vance and Babcock, of the Board of Education. Each of the above-named gentlemen, except Messrs. Acton and Babcock, addressed the scholars, urging upon them the superiority of their advantages, and the wisdom of improving the opportunities for obtaining a good education, afforded in the Evening College. One of the speakers said that Boston, Louisville, Ky., and even distant San Francisco, were about inaugurating evening high schools during the coming Winter, after the model of the New-York institution, and it was not improbable, he thought, that before long every city in the Union will afford its citizens similar liberal means of acquiring a knowledge of the higher branches of learning. Mr. Gerard requested those who were present last evening who had attended the previous year to hold up their hands, and fully three-fourths of the scholars did so.

Mr. Thomas Hunter, the Principal, was called for at the close of the speeches of the other gentlemen, and in response to the hearty greetings of his pupils, spoke a few kind words of encouragement, which were received with marked enthusiasm. This closed the interesting exercises of the occasion, and the assemblage was dismissed. Mr. John D. Robinson is the Assistant Principal of the school.

A Daring Gang of Burglars at Work in a Broadway Store.

Mr. William H. Veitch, a clerk in the employ of Messrs. Lathrop, Luddington & Co., Nos. 336 and 338 Broadway, arrived at the store preparatory to opening it. He soon after noticed three men take a hand-cart from the corner of Worth-street, which had been fastened by a chain, and proceed with the same to No. 323, almost directly opposite his own store. As soon as these men saw the clerk watching them, they returned the cart to the stand, and soon after ran off. Mr. Veitch next examined the door of No. 323, found it open and a large quantity of goods lying therein, when he notified the officers on post. An examination then followed by the Police, and the entire scope of the burglary ascertained.

It appears that the gang had climbed over the wall into the New-York Hospital-yard, and thence to an extension of No. 321 Broadway, breaking off the iron bar of an iron shutter of a second story window, by which means they gained access to the building, and to the premises occupied by Metz & Co., dealers in mantillas and fancy cloaks. The thieves then proceeded to pack up seventy-five black cloth cloaks, valued at $1,500, and also thirty-four fancy cloaks, valued at $1,000, then cut a pane of glass in the door leading into the entry, forced it open and proceeded down stairs to the front door which they were unable to move. The gang then carried their plunder up stairs to the roof, broke open the scuttle and descended into No. 323 Broadway, occupied by a number of tenants. On their way to the street door they were compelled to cut open the fastenings of two other doors, but did no further damage or depredation. The street door was evidently opened by a confederate from the outside, as a brass skeleton key was found on a showcase inside. The timely discovery of their street operations by the clerk frustrated the completion of their scheme, and they were compelled to leave all their plunder almost in the moment of success. The Police returned all of the property to the owners, and secured a large jimmy, the skeleton key and a white silk handkerchief.

Important Revenue Seizures.

The following seizures have just been reported by the officers of Internal Revenue:

Fifteen barrels of whisky belonging to H. Wimberger, of No. 513 West Thirty-fifth-street; the specified charge being removal at an improper hour and insufficient entries in books.

The tobacco factory of M. Barrowcliffe, on Raymond-street, Brooklyn, on account of insufficient bonds.

Donegan's distillery, Washington-avenue, on account of discrepancy in returns of 436 gallons.

One hundred and sixteen three-quarter boxes and 42 half boxes of plug tobacco, at the bonded warehouse of Samuel Ayres, Son & Co., seized to prove tax paid, being so branded.

The distillery of S. J. Ingraham, on Franklin-avenue, Brooklyn, on account of a discrepancy in accounts of 50,000 gallons. From the investigation of this case are promised some racy revelations implicating another Assessor. It is said that the whole affair is a "put up" job to catch officers who had made improper advances to the distiller.

POLICE COURTS.

THE TOMBS—HOGAN, Justice.

A SINGULAR PROCEEDING.

As Michael Murtha, a private watchman in some buildings in Broadway near Prince-street, was engaged in examining the interior of the premises, at an early hour yesterday morning, he heard some one knock at the front door. On opening it Murtha was astonished to find a man there with a large knife in his hand, with which weapon the unknown dealt him a sudden blow on the head, inflicting a serious wound. Officer Wood, of the Fourteenth Precinct, responded to the watchman's alarm and arrested the assailant, who gave the name of Patrick McDonald. He was subsequently arraigned before the magistrate. McDonald stated that he had been intoxicated at the time of the assault, and having received a severe beating in that locality he had knocked at the door under a mistake and stabbed the complainant, supposing him to be one of the men who had maltreated him. This defence did not avail, so McDonald stands committed for trial at the General Sessions in default of $1,000 bail. He is a native of Ireland, 21 years of age, a resident of Brooklyn, and an expressman.

ANOTHER FELONIOUS ASSAULT.

Martin Black, of No. 14 Baxter-street, appeared in the court-room yesterday morning and made oath that he had been violently and feloniously assaulted and beaten by one Patrick Mooney, who had cut him on the face with a razor, inflicting a wound from the eye to the ear, all of which was wholly uncalled for and unprovoked. Mooney had been arrested by Officer Heiche, of the Sixth Precinct, and on being arraigned denied the accusation. He was, however, held for trial at the General Sessions in default of bail. Mooney is a native of Ireland, 24 years of age, and resides in the same house with the complainant.

THE KNIFE.

Officer Regan, of the Twenty-seventh Precinct, arrested Patrick Given and M. Cully, on the complaint of Michael Harrington, of No. 12½ Washington-street, who accused them of having assaulted him with knives, and inflicted deep and serious wounds in his groin and side. When the prisoners were arraigned before the magistrate they were remanded for examination to-day.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE.

James E. Emerson of Trenton, N. J., made oath yesterday before the Magistrate to the effect that James E. Atwood, now held by the Police authorities of this City, is a fugitive from justice. It appears from the statements made by Mr. Emerson, that on or about the 30th of August Atwood fraudulently obtained from the American Saw Company, through the complainant, the sum of $500 as a consideration for the transfer of a pretended half interest held by him in a certain patent for securing cutters to rotary disks. The magistrate accepted the complaint, and remanded the accused to await the receipt of the requisition from the Governor of New-Jersey on Gov. Fenton.

ESSEX MARKET—MANSFIELD, Justice.

A CHILD ROBS A CHILD.

Monday night Mary Ann McCarty, a little girl, was sent by her father to collect some money. Having succeeded, she was on her way home with $28 in bills in her hand, and when at the corner of Ninth-street and Fourth-avenue, was accosted by a boy, 13 years of age, named Martin Fleming, who asked her where she got the money. She replied that it was none of his business and walked rapidly away from him. He said that he believed she had found it and had no right to it. The boy followed her and at the corner of Bond-street and the Bowery he seized her hand and forcibly wrested the money from her. Having done this he ran off toward Second-avenue with the little girl in pursuit. The chase seems to have been inexplicably long before she received any assistance, and it was not until they reached the corner of Second-avenue and Second-street that the boy was intercepted and arrested. Being arraigned he pleaded guilty and was committed for trial at the Court of General Sessions.

ALLEGED ABDUCTION.

On Sept. 9, John Bleakley made an affidavit before Justice Mansfield, charging that on the previous 18th day of August, Edward Simmons had persuaded his daughter, Madeline Bleakley, fifteen years of age, to leave her home and to live with him as his mistress. Upon this complaint a warrant was issued, and Simmons having been arrested, the examination began in the case yesterday.

PERSONATING A HARBOR-MASTER.

Gideon Ostrander was charged with a wrongful personation of a harbor-master. The complaint was made ten days ago by Mr. Wm. H. Brown, a large wharf owner and lessee on the East River, who says Ostrander had "wrongfully performed the duties of harbor-master in and about Pier No. 57, on the East River, and is in the habit daily of visiting and prowling about the docks leased to the deponent (Mr. Brown,) and, under pretence of acting for the Harbor-master of the district, demanding and receiving money from the captains and owners of vessels seeking berths; and has demanded and received on several occasions sums of money, from $2 to $10, from persons under threats of not permitting them to have berths for their boats, and has fraudulently collected several hundred dollars from captains and shipowners and others transacting business at Mr. Brown's docks," &c.

The penalty for the offence of falsely personating a harbor-master is fixed by the act of May 22, 1862.

The accused demanded an examination, which was set down for yesterday. The complainant, Mr. Brown, appeared with a great crowd of witnesses to proceed with the case, but the accused desired a further postponement through his counsel, Mr. Higgins. The prosecution, represented by Messrs. G. F. Noyes and J. F. Daly, strenuously objected to an adjournment, stating that they had 21 witnesses present and were anxious to go on. Justice Mansfield adjourned the case till to-morrow, at 10 A. M.

The Harbor-master of the district in which this alleged offence of Mr. Ostrander's took place is Mr. James Thompson. He was not present at the examination.

BROOKLYN NEWS.

Fires.—Last evening, shortly after 8 o'clock, a fire broke out in the manufactory of John T. Bruen, Nos. 81, 83 and 85 Bergen-street, Brooklyn. The structure was of wood, two stories and attic in height, and occupied three lots of ground. The occupants were W. S. Brewer, in the moulding business; Messrs. Le Barr & Graff, umbrella frame manufacturers; Charles Schinig, toy maker, and Mr. M. Rugg, toy maker. The structure was destroyed, and the damage amounts to about $20,000. It is insured in the Commonwealth. Star and other Companies of New-York. The fire, it is supposed, originated from accident. The carpenter shop of Patrick Murphy, corner of Atlantic-avenue and Hamilton-street, caught fire about 7 o'clock last evening and was damaged to the extent of $500. Insured in the Phœnix Company of Brooklyn.

The Atlantic-street Car Accident.—Coroner Lynch held an inquest yesterday upon the body of Miss Emma Leiding, who lost her life on the 4th inst., by jumping from a Greenwood car in Atlantic-avenue. Several witnesses were examined, and the following verdict was rendered by the jury: "Emma Leiding came to her death by a fracture of the skull, caused by jumping from a car of the Fifth-avenue and Atlantic-street line. We attach no blame to the driver or conductor, but think the immediate cause of death was the insecure condition of the brakes of the car, and we further hold the company owning said car liable therefor."

Board of Education.—The Board met yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the President, Mr. C. P. Smith, in the chair. The report on the subject of normal schools was presented by Mr. Northup, and much discussion ensued. Mr. H. R. Pierson expressed the opinion that, if sufficient compensation was given to teachers, there would be no need of normal schools. The subject was deferred for further consideration on the motion of Mr. Sprague. The Board shortly after adjourned.

Run Over.—August Koliner, a child aged two years, whose parents reside at the corner of North Second and Leonard streets, E. D., was run over in that neighborhood yesterday afternoon by a horse and wagon driven by Mr. Thomas Hallet, of Maspeth. The child was seriously if not fatally injured. The driver of the wagon was arrested by Officer Colgan, of the Forty-sixth Precinct, on a charge of reckless driving.

Sentence of a Burglar.—Thomas McAuley, aged 22 years, was yesterday sentenced to State Prison for 20 years, on pleading guilty to burglary in the first degree. As charged, the accused perpetrated 31 burglaries. Some $5,000 worth of stolen goods were found at his residence.

The Republicans have gained two members in the Board of Aldermen, making eighteen Republicans to eight Democrats.

The following are the names of the successful candidates:

Inquest and Verdict of Censure.—The inquest on the body of Mrs. Sarah G. Havens, who was run over and killed by a Central Railroad train of cars at Communipaw, was concluded before Coroner Warren, of Jersey City, between 12 and 1 o'clock on Monday night. The following verdict was rendered: "We, the jury, do find that Sarah G. Havens came to her death through the criminal carelessness of John Small, engine-driver of the mail train on the Central Railroad of New-Jersey, which passed the station at Communipaw on the evening of the 1st inst., the engine of which struck deceased as she was attempting to leave the cars of the local train, which was standing at said station discharging passengers. That the deceased was thrown with great violence from the track against the embankment and instantly killed; that the said mail train, the engine of which was driven by the said Small passed the station at a fearful rate of speed, and that timely warning was not given of the approach of said train by said Small. The jury further find that the managers and directors of the said Central Railroad Company are highly censurable for not providing suitable precautions against accidents to passengers leaving their trains at said station." The engineer, Small, has been missing since the occurrence, and his presence could not be procured at the inquest.

Attack on a Public House.—Between 11 and 12 o'clock on Monday night, a party of four ruffians, one of whom was named Craft, entered the lager-beer saloon, corner of First and Grand streets, Hoboken, where they ate and drank and then went out without paying the bill. The proprietor, John Engles, went out and remonstrated with the men, when they beat him in a most brutal manner, and broke in the windows with stones, after which they made their escape. A warrant for the arrest of the ruffians has been issued by Justice White.

Inquest.—An inquest on the body of the child Thomas Francis McCarty, run over by Dodge & Co.'s wagon, in Morgan-street, Jersey City, was concluded before Coroner Warren yesterday afternoon. The jury rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Costly Sporting.—Yesterday morning two young Germans were tried before Justice Aldridge, of Hudson City, under the recent law against hunting with firearms on Sunday. The accused, whose names are Peter Boulanger and Ernst Ashmus, were found guilty and fined $25 and costs.

Accident to Gen. Halstead.—Gen. N. N. Halstead, of East Newark, was thrown from his wagon Monday evening by the vehicle running upon a pile of rubbish, and was quite seriously injured.

News in Brief.—The Hudson County Rifle Regiment, Col. Rodgers, will have their first parade, inspection and review at Jersey City on the afternoon of the 28th inst.... John H. Carines, Foreman of the Empire Truck Company, Jersey City, was, on Monday evening, presented with a splendid gold watch by the members of the Company.... The Democratic Convention for Hudson County will be held at Odd Fellows' Hall, Hoboken, on Oct. 15.... Wm. Wheelan, arrested on suspicion of being a "night hawk," was yesterday fined $20 by Recorder Martindale, of Jersey City, and Mike Coolahan, for soliciting passengers, was fined a like sum.

Alleged Fraud.—Yesterday Officer Palmer, of the Second District Court Squad, arrested Benjamin W. Pycock, doing business lately as an importer of wine at No. 67 Exchange-place, upon a charge preferred by Joseph Wemess, of obtaining money by trick and device. The story told by Wemess is that he invested $5,000 in the business of Pycock, in consideration of which he was to become an equal partner. Subsequently he made a special deposit in the safe of Pycock of an additional $1,300, the whole sum thus passing to Pycock being $6,300. Wemess alleges that Pycock refused to fulfill the condition of the advancement of this money, and upon various pretexts postponed making Wemess a partner in his business, and in rendering an account of the $1,300, left with him on special deposit. Finally, as a means of temporarily silencing Wemess, he made him his clerk on a small salary, still continuing his promises to fulfill his contract, when a revival of business would justify the step. Wemess tired at last of his prevarications, and being driven to despair by the destitute condition of his father and mother, and himself, preferred the complaint against Pycock. It must be remembered that these are the ex-parte statements of the complainant and that Pycock has not yet told his side of the story. He will be afforded the opportunity, for he was required by Justice Ledwith to give bail to appear for an examination at Jefferson Market.

The Harlem Draw-Bridge—Note from Mr. Charles Pontez.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The article which appeared in the Times on the 1st instant in relation to the draw of the Harlem Bridge, contains an implication, which in justice to yourself, I trust I may be allowed to correct.

That the engine "was built entirely from designs furnished by the constructing engineer of the works," and that "it is totally unlike anything suggested by the engineer, (the subscriber) formerly mentioned," is undoubtedly quite true. As regards the design for the engine, I made no suggestions, nor was I consulted in the matter. But a previous statement which appeared in the Times of the 27th ultimo, crediting to me the device for using a natural head of water, "the turning a tap and the expenditure of a few gallons of Croton water without the aid of any other power," thus obviating the employment of manual labor in moving the draw, I am clearly and honorably entitled to, if the statement herewith sent, and the certificate attached, of the engineer of the work himself, are of any value.

Some years since, with the consent and approbation of the engineer, I furnished a small working engine solely to demonstrate my idea of the practicability of using the power of the Croton water to turn the draw, without reference to any peculiar construction of engine, as I would not presume to suggest a plan of an engine to one so eminent as the Chief Engineer as a constructor of engines. But I did then, and do now, respectfully claim the suggestion of the idea (now adopted) of the adaptation of the Croton water as a motive power for moving the draw of the Harlem Bridge. CHARLES PONTEZ.

SOUTHERN AID ROOMS,
NO. 845 BROADWAY.

THE LADIES' SOCIETY
IN AID OF THE
SUFFERING AND DESTITUTION OF THE SOUTH.

Mrs. HARLOW MATHER, Secretary.
HENRY HARTMAN, Treasurer.
FRANK H. NORTON, Actuary.

The Executive Committee of the Ladies' Society in Aid of the Suffering and Destitution of the South would earnestly remind their fellow-citizens of the North, that in addition to the immense which still prevail in almost every portion of the Southern half of the United States, the people of that section bordering upon the Gulf, are now afflicted with that terrible and devastating scourge,

DISTRESS AND DESTITUTION

THE YELLOW FEVER.

They have consequently been compelled to redouble their exertions for the termination of the work inaugurated by the Society, with the view of extending valuable and immediate assistance to their suffering brethren.

In accordance, therefore, with this purpose they make a

FINAL AND EARNEST APPEAL

to that generous public, who have up to the present time so nobly and fully responded to every call made upon them for the alleviation of the misery entailed upon a section of their

by the late fearful and fratricidal struggle in which it has been involved.

They have consequently secured the Galleries located at No. 845 Broadway, for the exhibition of the

SPLENDID COLLECTION OF PAINTINGS,

and a portion of the

MAGNIFICENT PREMIUMS

which will be awarded to the subscribers on

SATURDAY, NOV. 30, 1867,

at the close of the sale of shares, when

THEIR GRAND NATIONAL ENTERTAINMENT

will take place in Washington, D. C., and the

will be made in such manner as an Associate Committee selected by the subscribers may think fit, considering it best adapted to promote their wishes, and to secure their interests.

The actual urgency of that need for which they make this appeal, and the present necessity which exists for procuring additional funds to those which have already been forwarded by them to their impoverished and plague-stricken brethren, have induced the Lady Managers of the Society, after mature deliberation, to adopt the plan of a distribution of valuable premiums at the Grand National Entertainment, as one affording the of carrying out their purpose.

The plan which they have decided upon adopting will, while realizing a MAGNIFICENT, ALTHOUGH STILL INADEQUATE sum for the relief of the yield to the subscribers for this beneficent purpose premiums amounting in value to a large proportion of which premiums are now on exhibition at the office and galleries of the Society.

GENERAL PLAN.

It is proposed by the Ladies' Society in Aid of the Suffering and Destitution in the South, to issue

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND TICKETS.
PRICE OF EACH TICKET.........TWO DOLLARS.

The management guaranteeing that at the least premiums to the amount of

THREE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS

shall be distributed among the subscribers, leaving the Executive Committee of the Society a large amount to be devoted to the
